Mainly just the same Nick Wallis website you've already been sent. Beyond that, some critical thinking.

So when Depp's lawyer releases an image of Amber and Elon in an elevator, people assumed she was cheating and a liar.

But instead, ask yourself "why is there no timestamp?"

Correct.

So now the question is, why the fuck did you hop into this conversation to 'debate' with me, instead of informing the person that incorrectly claimed it was on Brian's channel?

He did though lol. He had a completely fair trial against NGN in a lawsuit he brought. It wasn't Amber's fault she wasn't a defendant in that case.

But it also counted against Amber trying to use it to dismiss the VA case.

Depp v Heard has not been litigated. Yet.

Fair trial against Amber. Because as you lot love to point out, she wasn't a defendant.

So Amber's claim that this case has already been tried in court failed. He had a fair trial against NGN. He will have a fair trial against Amber in VA.

It will still be the same result.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 13
Replying to @tomasson_j and @GenevieDEPP
Of course. She may believe he's innocent, just like she believes Avery is innocent. But unless she can actually prove it, it's only useful from a PR perspective. "She only takes cases of wrongfully accused".

She's undoubtedly a good lawyer. But I don't believe it will matter.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 13
Replying to @tomasson_j and @GenevieDEPP
We're eight weeks away from the trial. The days of investigation are gone. It's all about that prep. And she's just inherited a case that has been running for 3 years, and all the information that goes with it.

Time will tell if this was a stroke of genius or another disaster.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 13
Replying to @tomasson_j and @GenevieDEPP
But that's my point. Zellner joining the team has given off the impression that he must be innocent. "Why else would she take the case?", "She must have investigated".

It doesn't matter what she believes. It's what she can prove. It's PR over strategy.

1 1 2

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 13
Replying to @GenevieDEPP and @tomasson_j
My honest opinion is that it's a PR move.

It gives many people the impression that Depp is innocent, because Zellner is renowned for taking cases about wrongful conviction. So even if he loses it will be viewed as just another case of corruption or negligence.

Depp was free to push his narrative that Amber was abusive, and use that to undermine her testimony.

But it completely failed because the evidence he put forward didn't add up. I doubt anything will change on that front come VA.

Yeah, somehow they believe she applied a fake bruise using makeup, and took photos. Then cleaned the 'fake' bruise off, and held short conversations with potential witnesses. THEN reapplied the makeup outside, so she could get another photo.

Makes zero sense.

There is no specific rule for what an injury has to look like. People bruise differently.

You can't just say "oh you got hit with a phone? Well this is how you'll look in 2 hours. And this is how you'll look in 9 hours" etc. Everyone is different.

Completely incorrect. The photographs provided by Amber had flawless metadata. You can even see that each photo has it's metadata listed in NGN's closing statement.

That's not true. It's a misunderstanding of what the expert found.

The photos Schillings (Depp's lawyers) put into the trial bundles were faulty. When this was discovered, Amber provided the originals which had no faults.

So just to clarify.

He has to prove the article was about him. Then he has to prove that he wasn't abusive toward her.

She gets the benefit of the doubt, because she is innocent until proven guilty. Seeing as it's a defamation trial against her.

He will struggle with the jury.

It's common to send photographic evidence to a trusted friend. To create a backup in case something happens to the device they're stored on. (like the aggressor deleting them).

It's what Amber did with Raquel. And what Amanda old her to do.

When did he claim he "went and got drunk in the bathroom"?

It's clear that he was heavily drinking and taking drugs before the flight. And continued to drink during.

244. The Claimant did not recall whether he was under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs

Bettany, and which he agreed was about this flight, he said (file 6/119/F697.34),

> 'I'm gonna properly stop the booze thing, darling ... Drank all night before I picked Amber up to fly to LA this past Sunday ... Ugly, mate ... No food for days ... Powders ... Half a bottle of Whiskey, a thousand red bull and vodkas pills, 2 bottles of Champers on plane and what do you get ... ??? An angry, aggro injun in a fuckin blackout, screaming obscenities and insulting any fuck who gets near... I'm done. I am admittedly too fucked in the head to spray my rage at the one I love. For little reason I'm too old to be that guy But, pills are fine!!!.'

245. The Claimant agreed that the reference to 'powders' in this text referred to cocaine. He agreed that he had been incorrect earlier in his evidence when he said he had not taken cocaine at the time of this flight. He said,

> 'I did not remember that flight being such a nightmare.'

£2.37 every other Friday, but only on a full moon.

It was not the crux of why Nicol sided with her. That is complete nonsense. It was one sentence in the middle of a long reasoned Judgement. The CoA even pointed this out.

> 44. We do not accept that there is any ground for believing that the Judge may have been influenced by any such general perception as Mr Caldecott relies on. In the first place, he does not refer to her charitable donation at all in the context of his central findings: on the contrary, he only mentions it in a very particular context, as explained above, and after he had already reached his conclusions in relation to the fourteen incidents. We appreciate, however, that that by itself is not a complete answer to Mr Caldecott's submission. The real answer is that it is clear from a reading of the judgment as a whole that the Judge based his conclusions on each of the incidents on his extremely detailed review of the evidence specific to each incident. As noted at para. 4 above, in the case of many of the incidents there were contemporaneous evidence and admissions beyond the say-so of the two protagonists, which cast a clear light on the probabilities. In an approach of that kind there was little need or room for the Judge to give weight to any general assessment of Ms Heard's credibility, which is notoriously a more difficult and > very unlikely, that he gave any weight to general considerations about her character of the kind suggested by Mr Caldecott.
> 45. Nor, to address Mr Caldecott's further point, do we believe that the Judge would have reached a different conclusion if it had been established before him that Ms Heard had given a misleading impression about how much of the $7m which she said that she had donated to charity had in fact been paid. Again, that is essentially because, as we have said, his focus was squarely on the evidence relating to the alleged assaults themselves.

The Judge didn't say the trial against NGN was unfair. She said he hasn't had a chance at a full and fair trial against Amber. Because he hasn't, she was a witness.

It was a fair trial against NGN

evidence in the UK, Att. 1. In one of Depp's many requests for relief from sanctions in the UK - this time facing dismissal of his UK lawsuit - Depp contended that to obtain the "vindication" Depp then sought, and now purportedly seeks in this case (Opp'n 22), he preferred the UK Court to the US jury and believed the UK decision would achieve greater vindication for all parties:

> [T]he US proceedings will not produce a clear and reasoned judgment, which is exactly what Eady J [a Judge in a case Depp's counsel was citing] said is so important. Trial in the proceedings in Virginia will be a jury trial with just a verdict. Here, your Lordship will deliver a clear and reasoned judgment taking into account a mass of evidence, hearing from the parties and giving your judgment in relation to the 14 different incidents. As I say, Eady J made clear that it is a reasoned judgment that provides the vindication, not just for the claimant but also for the defendant.

Att. 2, at 15. The UK High Court, in granting Depp's request for relief, specifically found:

> I also see force in Mr. Sherborne's [Depp's counsel] points that a reasoned decision (which I shall have to give after the trial) will be a vindication for whatever party is successful of a different order than a bald verdict of a jury. Of course, I mean no disrespect to the procedure adopted in Virginia.

A court should know such details, but alas, she wasn't asked in court.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 2
Replying to @Jayman29439413 and @boycottaquaman2
That's not how it works. Despite what some larpers would have you believe.

The Judges didn't make a ruling or judgement about Amber. Because as a witness, who was not even asked about the issue at hand, she was not on trial. Nor did she have a chance to defend herself.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 2
Replying to @Jayman29439413 and @boycottaquaman2

1 1

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 2
Replying to @Jayman29439413 and @boycottaquaman2
No, if you actually ask a lawyer (not a twitter larper), they'll tell you the CoA had one thing to rule on. And that was whether the appeal had a realistic prospect of success. They didn't make a legal determination about anything else. Especially a witness, not a defendant.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 2
Replying to @Jayman29439413 and @boycottaquaman2
In a literal English court, they couldn't say she lied because she wasn't asked. If she had said "I consider a pledge, being donated" it would then have been left up to the opinion of the Judge.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 2
Replying to @diane_heymer
But they had been seeking them for months prior. So there was nothing stopping them asking her during cross-examination.

stopping them asking her during cross-examination.

The CoA noted that the $7m hadn't been fully paid. But stopped short of saying Amber lied because she wasn't asked about it.

> 49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it would then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

1 damage from Mr. Depp's going through and thrashing the 2 place. I had metadata. It had the exact date and it
3 had the time, it had all of that. Which is much more
4 compelling than two officers who didn't take any notes,
5 and for the first time, and didn't have body cam for 6 reason we're unclear about, and then six weeks later
7 said we don't recall anything.
8 Of course, if any of that existed, they would 9 have violated policy. And that's what we have the 10 corporate representative also from LAPD saying yes, if 11 those injuries were there, they needed to write a

The only employee who would dare ask Depp to return to filming was Deuters. Once. And Depp was extremely upset with him for doing so.

"should have remembered who pays him ALL YEAR ROUND"

"I watched his loyalty cease to exist!!!"

"I'll NEVER forget this... EVER!!!"

Yet she never fired anyone from his staff.

And when pressed on what he felt Amber could do, Murphy said she could be "subversive, saying negative things to Johnny".

That's pretty far from being able to fire him, right?

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1
Replying to @FLAVINMcFLAVIN @_Mz2u and 2 others
And that was the one time his employee was able to give an example of standing up to him. And Depp flipped. Deuters even said:

"Nobody else would do that job. I do not know why, but nobody else would do it"

His employees were afraid to go against him. Not her.

What was there to be threatened about? She was being employed by Depp, not her.

Meanwhile, when one of Depp's employees built up the courage to ask him to go back to Australia early so he can continue filming, this was his response.

willingness of those around the Claimant to ask him even modest requests. It nonstrates the Claimant's requirement for unstinting "loyalty" from his employee er words, allowing him to do whatever he wanted to do); of this incident, the Clain lust don't want to have anything to do with Deuters... No matter what, Stephen should have remembered who pays him ALL YEAR ROUND, even when he's not working, before sticking up for ANYONE else!! I watched his loyalty cease to exist!! Was he disappointed, the poor dear??? He totally tried to undermine my desire to wait for Amber!!! Why..??? In any case, I'll NEVER forget this... EVER!!!

How did she "threaten" Vargas?

She fired Kate, yes. Because that was her assistant. She had nothing to do with Depp.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1
A guy who committed perjury because he 'felt his job was at threat' not because of his boss but because of his bosses wife, who had no say in his employment status. And his only proof was a text from her saying "I wouldn't want you to have a problem with your job".

Wow. Great.

Yes. lol. Yes it did.

"On his own account, Mr Murphy was prepared to give false evidence to the Australian court. That is not an encouraging starting point for the submission that his evidence is now to be believed."

2 1

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1
It seems like the police didn't do their jobs properly, yes. Since they didn't take notes, ask names, notice damage, turn on bodycam, or remember how long they attended the callout for.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1

Nope. Because while she hit him in self defence and in defence of her sister, he just lost control when on drink and drugs and abused her.

Replying to @_Mz2u @Maddy_J6l2 and @JohnWil15119322
All the more reason why it wouldn't make sense for her to have done it.

He wasn't coming back to the Penthouse. She left for Coachella. The dog with bowel problems shit in the bed. Simple.

It wasn't equal.

Everything was considered. It's just that some of it was considered to be unreliable.

Like Depp's security disagreeing on whether he went into PH5 or not. For one example.

Why are you quote retweeting me? lol

Kevin literally perjured himself. He doesn't need to be investigated. He admitted it. Which fundamentally damaged his credibility in court.

I'm not sure how you can get a sense of scale from that photo, at all.

And an incomplete mastery of bowels doesn't mean it's always loose. It means the dog doesn't have control over where and when it goes. For example, in the bed.

Of course she didn't do that.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1
Replying to @_Mz2u @JohnWil15119322 and @Maddy_J6l2
Has it? That's NGN's response in court, and the Judge agreed with them. There's been nothing since then.

It's far more likely that the dog with bowel issues shit in the bed. Than a woman who was going to be the only one sleeping in that bed.

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1

Replying to @FLAVINMcFLAVIN @JohnWil15119322 and 2 others

Wait, is this the same Kevin Murphy that admitted giving false information to another court? Literally admitting to perjury?

And we're just supposed to take his, lousy, word for it? Even though he can't prove she told him it was a prank, and she completely denies it?

"She's begging for global humiliation... She's gonna get it." - Johnny Depp

3 1 5

A1 @AH1IC · Jan 1

Replying to @JohnWil15119322 @_Mz2u and @Maddy_J6l2

It was their dog, which had bowel problems.

479. In his cross-examination, Mr Depp accepted that his sense of humour was 'niche'. It also had a lavatorial streak. On 11th October 2013 he had sent a text to Stephen Deuters which said (see file 6/119/F697.14),

> 'Will you squat in front of the door of the master bedroom and leave a giant coil of dookie so that Amber steps in it and thinks that one of the dogs, primarily Boo, has a major problem. It'll be funny!!!'

480. Mr Depp's belief that Ms Heard or one of her friends was responsible for leaving the faeces on the bed is relevant because (a) it led him to conclude that his marriage to Ms Heard could not continue and (b) it was the cause of part of the argument which subsequently took place on 21st May 2016. In my view, whether Ms Heard or one of her friends was in fact responsible is not important. It is remote from the central issue, namely whether Mr Depp assaulted Ms Heard. It is not even of significant relevance to whether Ms Heard assaulted Mr Depp. For what it is worth, I consider that it is unlikely that Ms Heard or one of her friends was responsible. Mr Depp had left that night for his property in Sweetzer. As long as he was away, it was Ms Heard who was likely to suffer from the faeces on the bed, not him. It was, therefore, a singularly ineffective means showed that Boo (one of the two dogs) had an incomplete mastery of her bowels after she had accidentally consumed some marijuana. Ms Heard gave evidence that Boo had in the past defecated on the bed and that she herself had cleaned it up rather than leave that task to Ms Vargas. On 29th October 2014, Ms Heard wrote in a text message to Kevin Murphy that (see file 7/3(b)/H27.2),

> 'Last night she [Boo] shit on Johnny. While he was sleeping. Like all over him. Not exaggerating.'

15 problems in the marriage?
16 A. As I said, towards the end of our relationship, I would hit 17 the bottle pretty good.
18 Q. Let us have a look at what else you say. "So, my drinking was 8 peace. Vanessa needs peace and she deserves to be happy."
9 Now, is that accurate, what you have said there about your 10 alcohol abuse?
11 A. Yes.
12 Q. You have been living in a state of constant poison for years?
13 A. I would say I might have, when you are in that state, I may 14 have taken a little bit of liberty with the words, saying 15 "constant", but it has occurred throughout my entire life.

Paul Bettany and Johnny Depp talking about burning, drowning, and raping Amber Heard... because she didn't want them to do drugs.

#AVeryBritishScandal

> v) It was also 11th June 2013 when Mr Depp had a particularly striking exchange of texts with his friend Paul Bettany which included the following (see file 6/119/F697.8):
> 'JD: Let's burn Amber!!!

PB: Having thought it through I don't think we should burn Amber – she's delightful company and easy on the eye, plus I'm not sure she's a witch. We could of course try the English course of action in these predicaments – we do a drowning test. Thoughts?

JD: Let's drown her before we burn her!!! I will fuck her burnt corpse afterwards to make sure she's dead.

PB: My thoughts entirely! Let's be CERTAIN before we pronounce her a witch.'

Well VA is stacked against him at this point. Amber is presumed innocent (whereas NGN had to prove what they wrote was true), and Depp needs a unanimous jury to win.

The CoA Judges couldn't make a call on that because Amber was not asked about it.

And the Court of Appeal pointed out she wasn't asked. So if she now clarified that she meant pledged, not paid. Then how can his lawyers dispute that?

49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

The officer witnessed Amber grab Tasya's arm. That's it. But the prosecution were unable to file charges because they could not prove that contact was offensive to Tasya.

Hence, no record of violence

So...no then? He has no proof. Nothing except his word. After four years of claiming he didn't headbutt her. Audio comes out of him admitting it, and

She was arrested and released without charge. She has zero history of violence.

Just one of the many times he was caught lying during the trial. Depp concedes he did headbutt Amber Heard after lying for years that he's "innocent" and was "never violent towards her".

Highlight from the Johnny Vs Amber documentary. One of the 12 PROVEN allegations is that he headbutted her. It's supported by photographs of her injuries, a make-up artist who testified she saw and covered them up, texts at the time, and even Depp's own audio confession. 👇

Which is pretty stupid, considering Isaac (Depp's witness) saw wine stains outside that door at 9:30, an hour before the bodycam footage.

And Josh took a photo of the wine at 9:04. One minute before the first officers showed up.

Yet shadows happened to be in the same place?

The metadata Amber provided the expert/court was flawless. Note the "unedited version", "inconsistencies: no", "third party: no".

The problem was with the metadata put into trial bundles by Schillings, who were Depp's team.

Remember how they changed times to 00:00...

Yeah...

To identify whether unedited versions of the twenty other December 2015 images exist, I examined the following sources of evidence:

CJ: You'll be notified via [unintelligible] if anything happens within the statute of limitations. The statute of limitations on a case like this is two years. So make sure that if your address changes that you notify the court. Otherwise it could result in warrants and that would be a DV case and that could have cross-state implications so just because you're in California, it wouldn't provide you any relief from a DV designation. LEGAL FILE

<I> ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT REPORTS FROM THE TIMES, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICES AND THE NATION'S PRESS</I>

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp overreacted during a discussion with the guard. Both the defense and prosecution asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

It had nothing to do with a lack of evidence on her part.

Utter nonsense. She chose to drop it with prejudice because that was a requirement for the divorce settlement. And at that point they were both just wanting it to go away so they could move on.

She could have dropped it without prejudice but that would have made the agreement.

I have no interest in the opinions of your followers. So I'm just going to mute these.

But I'll leave you with what was said in court, that convinced two High Court Judges.

Finally, in any event, the information does not monstrate that Ms. Heard lied. What she said in her atement was that she had donated the money, not that iid it. A donation is not the same as a payment, and at, not least because this is how the charities themse ive understood what Ms. Heard has done. The ACL rdships have seen the document, they understood years. That is a donation. Similarly, with The Chil ospital, Ms. Heard is listed on the list of donors in th million to 5 million category because she has pledge nount. She is a donor. Therefore, there is nothing w l alone dishonest about Ms. Heard's description of w s done as making a donation.

WOLANSKI: She has. As your Lordships have o planation when this came up in the US court was s ese pledges and fully intended to fulfil them. There ason to suppose that had she been questioned in thi e would not have given exactly the same explanatio urt here that her lawyer gave to the US court when atter arose in December last year. She said nothing So, my Lord, the evidence would have made absc fference to the case. The judge found that she had ords, made a gift and a donation. He did not find sl ade payments. Therefore, what he found about wh ne was correct. So that is what we say on the fresh idence.

It's a legally binding contract. The money belongs to them, and they can secure loans on that pledge.

I'm not saying they're always interchangeable. Just that pledged, ie: an oath/promise, is effectively the same thing.

PR: The state is declining to file charges at this time.

CJ: Okay what that means, ma'am, is that no charges will be filed against you today. However that could happen in the future. Therefore we want to make sure we have your correct address. Sycamore Avenue in Los Angeles, right?

AH: Yes sir.

CJ: You'll be notified via [unintelligible] if anything happens within the statute of limitations. The statute of limitations on a case like this is two years. So make sure that if your address changes that you notify the court. Otherwise it could result in warrants and that would be a DV case and that could have cross-state implications so just because you're in California, it wouldn't provide you any relief from a DV designation. No lol. Because it's Greef's incorrect interpretation you're drawing from.

The CoA DID NOT find that Amber lied about donations. They specifically pointed out that she wasn't asked. So there is no way they could come to a determination on what she meant in her witness statement.

49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

Guess which one Amber will claim?

49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

JD: All I'm saying is we need to take whatever time we need, you need or I need, to kind of let things settle for a minute. So that we don't fuckin' kill each other or fuckin' worse, you know fuckin', like really kill each other or fuckin' break up or whatever..

JD: You may be right but you can't predict the future. Once again, here's what I'm saying.. if the fight escalates to the point of where it's just insulting for both of us, uh or if it gets to that physical fuckin' shit, the violence.. that's when we just say "look, le's go to our corners man. You- you- you hang wherever you want baby, I'm going into the office and I'm just gonna fuckin' sit there and try and de-jellify my fuckin' brain. 7 You say, "You can please tell people it was a fair
8 fight...(reads to the words)... I'm a victim too of domestic 9 violence." He says, "Yes, it's a fair fight. ...(reads to the 10 words)...it doesn't matter, a fair fight, my arse." Then you

I'm not "conveniently ignoring" the phone. King was asked about it and confirmed that it was not a wall-mounted telephone. It's just a photo of a phone. Maybe because the one that had been attached to the wall was now destroyed? Who knows.

And the idea that a bottle somehow sliced off his finger and broke bones, while simultaneously exploding on impact and without leaving any other cuts or glass shards in the wound... does not prove her guilt.

We're having a discussion. This isn't a trial.

Dear Amber,

Thank you for your wonderful gift of $350,000 to the ACLU, the first installment of your very generous pledge of $3.5 million. I am honored by your vote of confidence to our work, especially our efforts on behalf of domestic violence victims. And I'm incredibly grateful that you have spoken out publicly on this critical issue.

For nearly 100 years, the ACLU has been tireless in its effort to protect those who cannot protect themselves. With you by our side, we will continue to work with fierce determination to advance civil liberties, today and for years to come.

Thank you for all that you have done for us — not only for your generous financial support, but also for your leadership as a public figure. Again, Amber, I so look forward to meeting and thanking you in person. I hope you have a wonderful fall.

With gratitude,

Yes. And Depp's team tried to appeal based on the donations. But they failed because Amber was never even asked about it.

She could say "I meant pledged"... then what?

> 49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her

Dear NO,

[redacted] RESUS presented to the Emergency Department at Gold Coast University Hospital on the 8 MAR 2015 at 16:20. The presenting problem was INJURY.

The diagnosis was # OF FINGER

Thanks for seeing and treating this patient. He sustained a injury to his right middle finger tonight after accidentally cutting it with a kitchen knife. He has an oblique de-tipping injury that commences distal to the DIPJ on the ulnar side and runs obliquely to the midline of the tip of the finger. Xray shows a comminuted # of the tuft and an oblique fracture more proximally suggestive a crushing mechanism. His doctor did bring in a small fragment of tissue that felt abnormally firm - hard and was felt to be unsuitable for a graft. He had a ring block with ropivicaine and the wound was cleaned by Dr [redacted] (plastic / hand surgeon) after further supplementation of the ring block with additional bupivicaine. His tetanus was updated and he received a single dose of iv ticarcillin-clavulanate 3.1 g.
Unfortunately he will not be able to continue working until the finger is well healed and this will be several weeks. His private doctor has a supply of augmentin and wil administer twice daily.
He will be followed up tomorrow by Dr [redacted] and surgical options discussed.

7 Q. Yes.
8 A. I was aware that it was mentioned that a telephone had been 9 smashed in that area, which may have caused the damage to the 10 finger.
11 Q. And the telephone had been ripped off the wall. This is not a 14 Q. Did you have any photographs of the wall phone that had been 16 A. I do not recall a phone coming off the wall, or having to 17 replace a phone ripped off the wall.

18 Q. Are you sure about that?
19 A. Yes.

The makeup artist testified to seeing injuries, and described how she hid them for that TV appearance. You're thinking of the stylist, who was not in the room while Amber was having her makeup applied.

A. Yes.
Q. When was that?
A. December 16, the day after, for the James Corden show.
Q. And when you apply makeup to someone, is that in a special area?
A. It was done upstairs of the Penthouse 5 in an area that was her kind of closet, but it was obviously a room. That is where we used to do hair and makeup.
Q. What was the light like in that area where you were doing the makeup?
A. Well, the light, I mean, I do not specifically recall the light, but the light must have been good because I need good light to do makeup and I have my own light, which I normally do.

WHAT IS AN ALCOHOL BLACKOUT?

it difficult for the brain to form new memories, leading to long periods of time in which someone is drinking and not remembering what they are doing or what is happening around them.

Not everyone reacts to alcohol the same, but usually, someone's BAC must reach about 0.14 percent for a blackout to begin — that's almost twice the legal limit for driving. Without the influence of alcohol, the brain processes sensory input through transfer encoding, forming short-term memories. It then does the same to convert short-term memories to long-term memories, which are then stored for later retrieval. Alcohol interferes with the conversion of short-to-long-term memories, as well as retrieval from long-term storage. There are two types of blackouts from drinking:

- En block or complete blackouts induce complete memory loss until the person's BAC lowers enough for memory processing to start working again.
- Partial or fragmentary blackouts may involve the person forgetting what has happened recently, but being able to retrieve some memories with the right cues.

A blackout from drinking is far different from passing out, although people tend to confuse the two. A person who is blackout drunk is still conscious and making decisions. They may even appear to hold conversations, even if they experience memory loss when drinking.

From the Court of Appeals decision.

39. The further evidence which Mr Depp now wishes to adduce goes to the question of whether Ms Heard had indeed given the $7m to charity. The evidence consists of a witness statement from his solicitor, Ms Rich, exhibiting various documents obtained in, or generated by, the US proceedings since the judgment in this case – principally documents received from the CHLA on 18 December 2020 in response to the subpoena served on it and documents received from Ms Heard by way of discovery on 4 January 2021. We need not give the details because there is no dispute as to their overall effect. They show that while Ms Heard has pledged $3.5m to the ACLU, payable over ten years from 2016, and appears also (though this is not quite so clear) to have pledged the same amount to the CHLA, most of that money has not so far been paid. The only amounts that the evidence which we have seen clearly shows that she has paid are $100,000 to the CHLA and $450,000 to the ACLU. The documents refer to some other substantial payments associated with her, though not clearly donated by her; but even if these are taken into account the total is under $2m. The evidence also contains a transcript of a hearing in the US proceedings on 18 December 2020 in which her lawyers state that she has pledged the full amounts to the CHLA and the ACLU; that "a significant proportion" of those pledges have been fulfilled; and that there is a "multi-year process" through which she can pay the balance, which she "certainly intends to do" although it may take some time. The lawyers appear to suggest that the process of making payment in full has been delayed by the costs that she has had to incur in defending Mr Depp's claim against her in the US, although Ms Rich observes that those proceedings were not commenced until at least a year after Ms Heard had received full payment of the divorce settlement.

Judgment Approved by the court for handing down. Depp II v News Group Newspapers Ltd & Anr

Benny took issue with her handing over the Australia drug texts. Which he should have handed over already, since they were admissible.

Their lack of disclosure nearly ended the lawsuit, until they stated they weren't going to pursue sanctions against Amber in the US.

iv) The Claimant had threatened Ms Heard with repercussions in the Virginia proceedings for supplying the Australian drugs texts to the Defendants in these proceedings. The intimidation of Ms Heard has continued in the days leading up to the present hearing and only days before the expected start of the trial on 7th July 2020 (This was Mr Wolanski's third point at Denton stage 2).

> Mr Wolanski submits that the Defendants have only known about the deficiencies in the Claimant's disclosure because of the assistance they have received from Ms Heard. The discovery procedure in Virginia allowed either party to designate a document as 'confidential' in which case its use outside those proceedings was restricted. After the hearing on 25th June Ben Chew, who is one of the Claimant's US lawyers wrote to Ms Heard's US lawyers,
>
> > 'We understand that in London today counsel for the Sun tabloid provided certain texts that Mr. Depp produced and marked CONFIDENTIAL pursuant to the Protective Order in the Fairfax case. We believe that such disclosure is an egregious violation of the Protective Order and we plan to seek appropriate relief from the Court in Fairfax.'
>
> Mr Wolanski submits that a letter in those terms sits uneasily with what Ms Afia said in her 8th witness statement, namely.
>
> > 'There has been no attempt to prevent the Defendants obtaining documents by Ms Heard, even if the provision of these documents is apparently in breach of US procedural law.'
> Mr Wolanski argues that the letter of Mr Chew was only the latest in a number of similar threats to Ms Heard by the Claimant's US lawyers.

Haha, brilliant. You just said you didn't get your information from other cultists. But here you are, linking me to fucking Bockov of all people. Who has tweeted out two screenshots that Greef typed up before he ran away. Incredible.

In reality, she wasn't asked. So didn't lie.

49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

So Johnny Depp has been forced by a court to release the audio transcripts where he admits to beating Amber Heard. He not only doesn't deny the claim, but repeatedly confesses "I made a huge mistake" and promises not to do it again. Justice for Johnny Depp though right?

You cut off the last sentence.

Because she was never asked. So because of that, they don't know if Amber meant "pledged" or "paid" when she said donated. You can blame Sherborne for that.

A1 @AH1IC · Oct 17, 2021

Replying to @WendyG22023093 @TypicalDeviant and @ginmarrienne

As they stated, judging someone's credibility is a "more difficult and uncertain basis for deciding disputed facts". What actually happened was Nicol assessed the evidence put forward, which sided with Amber.

She was never asked about the donations, as the CoA pointed out.

> Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

Interesting that we're back to this again. You're opening the door to a lot of abuse if your standard is 'was she actually harmed though?'

Is that what Depp's witness saw when he returned to his PH at 9:30... fucking shade!? Dumb. As. Fuck.

5. On May 21st, 2016, I was out in the neighborhood. I arrived at the Eastern at around 9:30 pm, met a friend and we proceeded up to my apartment which is Penthouse 2 on the top floor/roof. Immediately exiting the elevator and at the beginning of the hallway that leads to the 5 penthouses on this floor that Mr Depp owned, we noticed that there was broken glass on the floor from a broken sconce that hung on the wall. We then proceeded to round the corner of the hallway and stopped in front of Penthouse 1, because there was a large puddle of spilt wine along with splashed wine running down the wall directly in front of the door. I said to my friend something like: "it looks like somebody got hammered, probably these guys had a party", meaning Ms Heard's friends Raquel Pennington and her fiancé Josh Drew, who

6. At that very moment, the door to Penthouse 1 opened and Mr Drew stepped out far enough through the doorway to address me but also to block my view of the apartment inside. I asked Mr Drew what had happened with the spilt wine and he very seriously replied with words to the effect of, "we kind of had a rough day". He looked and sounded stressed and a bit worried, so I asked if he was okay and if he needed help, to which he replied: "No, it's ok, thanks", or words to that effect. I said that was okay, said goodbye and my friend and I went to my apartment.

2 saying it is in self-defence, are you?
3 A. That is exactly what I am admitting to throughout the entire
4 tape, is that it was in defence. You are seeing two things
5 here, Ms. Laws. You are saying an example, an excerpt of a 6 conversation which I would say reflects one of many 7 conversations that Johnny and I had during the course of our 8 relationship. It is also, as you admitted, was taken out of a 9 bigger context but I will do my best to explain. In this 10 particular moment, as Johnny was falling on to the door or 11 falling on to the floor and screaming incoherently. I did not 13 previously slept and rested next to the door, locked doors, in 14 order to make sure he did not choke on his vomit while passed
15 out. He falls against a door, it opens briefly, I try to get 16 into the bathroom. I think we might have all done this, where 17 someone on the other side cannot see you, you make contact
18 with each other on the door, Johnny either pushes or falls
19 against it and it runs over my toes. I, because there is a 20 door and him coming against me, pushing more on to my feet and 21 more on to me, I do anything I can out of instinct to push the 22 door and the weight of the door off of me in order to, in 23 order to get that off of me and causing more damage. That was

2 arms away from me and outside, and push the door frankly to 3 put, that was putting pressure on my body, to get it off of 4 me. If you knew how it was, have communication with Johnny
5 about our violence or our fights or anything in between, I
6 knew better than to fight with him about the details of the 7 fight and what he perceived as insult, injuries, or grievances
8 that fallen on him. My job was to just try to say, sorry, and 9 let us move on to the bigger point. Let us keep him on track
10 and talk about the other things. I had to, or else I would 13 more mad, more enraged and he would have gotten even more 14 violent with me.
15 Q. Every time you are faced with a record or a tape of you
16 admitting to violence, or starting fights, you turn it around 17 and say you are defending yourself, do you not; that is what 18 you do, is it not?
19 A. I was there, and I remember it. I am just giving you context.
20 Q. Because in that tape you are clearly saying that you hit him?
21 A. I had to make contact with his arms in order to prevent him
22 from hurting me worse. That happens in these situations.

17 MR. JUSTICE NICOL: I understand we are back in the public session.
6. In 2013, Ms Heard became aware of what happened to me as I had talked about it with a friend of hers at her apartment. Ms Heard then summoned me to her office where we sat on her couch and she questioned me about it, she was curious as to how I coped with it on a daily basis and she suggested I buy a gun. I was shocked at that suggestion as I would not consider having a gun in my home with a small child around. I responded that I chose to see myself as a "rape survivor" and not a "rape victim", and that is how I found my own way to cope.
7. On June 25, 2020, I received documents pertaining to my involvement on behalf of the Claimant in this case. As I perused the documents, much to my utter shock and dismay, I discovered that Ms Heard had in fact stolen my sexual violence conversation with her and twisted it into her own story to benefit herself. This of course caused me extreme distress and outrage that she would dare to attempt to use the most harrowing experience of my life as her own narrative.

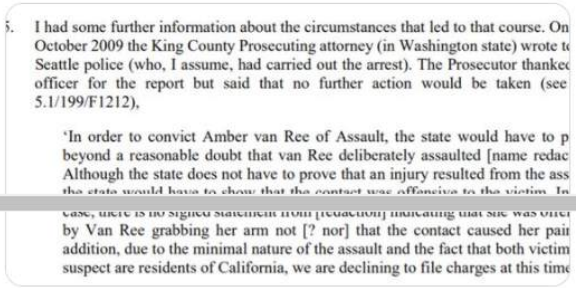
She does not have a criminal record for DV. She was arrested because a police officer saw her grab her wifes arm.

She was released without charge because Tasya didn't find that contact offensive. It was removed from her record 2 years later, since the prosecution didn't file.



5. I had some further information about the circumstances that led to that course. On October 2009 the King County Prosecuting attorney (in Washington state) wrote to Seattle police (who, I assume, had carried out the arrest). It was discussed in court documents. And the Judge believed it was unlikely was the one responsible, instead pointing to their dogs bowel problem.

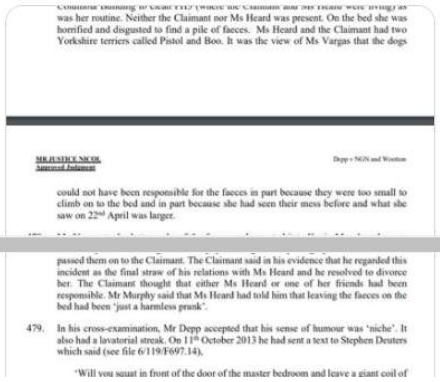
So if you're trusting court documents over tabloid rags...



was her routine. Neither the Claimant nor Ms Heard was present. On the bed she was horrified and disgusted to find a pile of faeces. Ms Heard and the Claimant had two Yorkshire terriers called Pistol and Boo. It was the view of Ms Vargas that the dogs

MR JUSTICE NICOL
Approved Judgment

Depp v NGN and Wootton

could not have been responsible for the faeces in part because they were too small to climb on to the bed and in part because she had seen their mess before and what she saw on 22nd April was larger.

passed them on to the Claimant. The Claimant said in his evidence that he regarded this incident as the final straw of his relations with Ms Heard and he resolved to divorce her. The Claimant thought that either Ms Heard or one of her friends had been responsible. Mr Murphy said that Ms Heard had told him that leaving the faeces on the bed had been 'just a harmless prank'.

479. In his cross-examination, Mr Depp accepted that his sense of humour was 'niche'. It also had a lavatorial streak. On 11th October 2013 he had sent a text to Stephen Deuters which said (see file 6/119/F697.14).

'Will you squat in front of the door of the master bedroom and leave a giant coil of dookie so that Amber steps in it and thinks that one of the dogs, primarily Boo, has a major problem. It'll be funny!!!"

480. Mr Depp's belief that Ms Heard or one of her friends was responsible for leaving the faeces on the bed is relevant because (a) it led him to conclude that his marriage to Ms Heard could not continue and (b) it was the cause of part of the argument which subsequently took place on 21st May 2016. In my view, whether Ms Heard or one of her friends was in fact responsible is not important. It is remote from the central issue, namely whether Mr Depp assaulted Ms Heard. It is not even of significant relevance to whether Ms Heard assaulted Mr Depp. For what it is worth, I consider that it is unlikely that Ms Heard or one of her friends was responsible. Mr Depp had left that night for his property in Sweetzer. As long as he was away, it was Ms Heard who was likely to suffer from the faeces on the bed, not him. It was, therefore, a singularly ineffective means for Ms Heard or one of her friends to 'get back' at Mr Depp. Other evidence in the case showed that Boo (one of the two dogs) had an incomplete mastery of her bowels after she had accidentally consumed some marijuana. Ms Heard gave evidence that Boo had in the past defecated on the bed and that she herself had cleaned it up rather than leave

Yeah that's not true.

She was saying that the evidence she had couldn't be explained away with ridiculous accusations like Amber being in a "secret fight club" or the idea that she was 'faking injuries by going into hair and makeup'.

The evidence was strong and went back years.

Amber: No, yeah but it becomes court, it becomes—
John: [9:25] Do you want to go to court, Amber? Seriously? Do you want to go to court with this? I'm trying—I'm offering, you right now, ah-uh-uh an opportunity for us to make this finish in peace, peaceful, man. We walk away, you go do what you gotta do. I go do what I gotta do. I've I've been through the fucking hurt, you've been through the fucking hurt. I love you more than anything in in life. But, I do not want to go into a fucking court with you. I do not wanna—I do not wanna fucking tarnish your name. I don't wanna fucking tarnish—I don't want nothing. I want this to be done peacefully between us, and if you don't like the way that mediation is going, take me back to court, kid. Cause I can't. I. . . this is the last fucking chance, Amber. This is it! Once they file those papers, we don't turn around, man. And I know you hate me and I know you—but I'm telling you now, there is no call, it doesn't need to happen like this. Please, for fucking sake, trust me man. I was, not going to help you on this. Nobody is going to help you on this. I'm trying to help you on this. I love you. Regardless of whether we're together or not, I love you. And I have loved you, with everything in the fucking world. Whether your love was real or not, I love you. And I want this—(phone rings. She wasn't listening to his monologue because the call dropped)

John: Of course everything I said was not hear right? Fuck me.
Amber: I don't know, I don't know where—
John: I know. What I was trying to say is this. . . continuing through court is going to end up nothing but bad, for you and for me. It's just going to be bad. In any case. No matter whether we run each other or fucking not, it's going to be fucking heartbreaking. It's terrible. Let's write a fucking mutual letter that says, "Look, we—in lieu of what's transpiring out there in the world with all this fucking crazy shit, we've decided to take this private. We're not going to go to court right now over this. We're going to try to work something out together." And then at least, at the very fucking least. . . (1:22) I know you want to respond and I know you want to defend yourself. Listen to me: defending yourself by throwing someone under the bus is not

John: I understand, I understand. And I don't want to hurt you either. I'm only going to say this. I-I love you (chuckles) I love you. And I've always loved you, and, um, I know that um, (she's crying in the background) Look, you do whatever you feel you have to do. I'm telling you now it's a mistake to go to court. But if you want to go to court, we'll go to court. I would rather-I would rather take care of it a different way. I think it would-it would be very good for you and I think it would be very good for me. Um. . . but you know what, baby. .
Amber: I've been called a liar
John: Baby. .
Amber: and I've been called a gold digger. . .

The headbutt Alisha is talking about happened in Dec 2015.

Neither Amber or Depp have claimed a headbutt took place during that door incident.

As for being dragged and punched, she claimed that he was punching her in the back of the head as he had her face down on the bed. So it wouldn't be an injury to her face.

She loses it and says things she shouldn't

JD: It absolutely matters to me.

AH: But I do, and I can't promise you that I'll be perfect. I can't promise you I won't get physical again. God I fuckin' sometimes get so mad I lose it. AH: That's what I'm saying, you know, I don't wanna- I don't think our marriage should be something used to- In fact if you want a divorce, you're going to tell me not in a fight. Let's be honest. You know, that's a decision a lifelong decision that even you and me as hotheads know you can't make forever when you're- when you're mad like that. It certainly feels like you can but you and I both, even though we're hotheads, we do know the difference. However, I don't think it's something we should ever say to each other in a fight ever. And if you promise me, and I promise you. When we need- we need that, we need to hold each other accountable again. I want to feel safe, I have nothing to cling on to. You didn't even come home last night. I feel like I have nothing to hold on to. No semblance of marriage or commitment or stability. > 49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have > fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

I'm not sure where he said she has a problem with violence? She has a temper, sure. But that can be shouting and anger. Mood swings don't necessarily mean violence either.

She admits to starting a fight after the 'door over her toes' incident. A poor reaction to pain.

Yes, she put a date on the allegation. So it was a known accusation, yet Depp didn't admit 'an accidental collision' until mid-trial over a year later.

December 15, 2015, Los Angeles, California:

23. On the night of December 15, 2015, I had plans to meet with my friends Raquel "Rocky" Pennington and Melanie at Johnny's and my penthouse in Los Angeles. Before they arrived, Johnny picked another fight with me. He threw another decanter at me, knocked items around the room, and punched the wall. He slapped me hard, grabbed me by my hair, and dragged me from a stairwell to the office to the living room to the kitchen to the bedroom and then to the guest room. In the process, he pulled large chunks of hair and scalp out of my head.

24. Hoping to avoid the violence, I tried to calm Johnny down, and then went upstairs to try to remove myself from the situation. Johnny followed me, hit me in the back of my head, grabbed me by my hair again, got in front of me on the steps, and then dragged me by my hair up the last few steps. At the top of stairs, Johnny shoved me twice, which made me fear I would fall. I told Johnny that he had broken my wrist in an attempt to get him to stop.

25. Johnny kept hitting me, and each time he knocked me down, I chose to react by simply standing up and looking him in the eye. Johnny responded by yelling, "Oh, you think you're a fucking tough guy?" He reeled back and head-butted me in my face, bashing my nose, which immediately began bleeding, sending searing pain through my face. I instantly started tearing up, and I thought that I would have to go to the hospital. I told Johnny I wanted to leave him, and that I would call the police if he ever touched me again. When I began to walk away toward the guest apartment, he responded by pushing me, then grabbed me and pulled me from one room to the next, gripping me by my hair.

Q. Did you ever see Amber Heard hit him or be violent at all?

A. No.

That's a very poor understanding of what happened.

44. We do not accept that there is any ground for believing that the Judge may have been influenced by any such general perception as Mr Caldecott relies on. In the first place, he does not refer to her charitable donation at all in the context of his central findings: on the contrary, he only mentions it in a very particular context, as explained above, and after he had already reached his conclusions in relation to the fourteen incidents. We appreciate, however, that that by itself is not a complete answer to Mr Caldecott's submission. The real answer is that it is clear from a reading of the judgment as a whole that the Judge based his conclusions on each of the incidents on his extremely detailed review of the evidence specific to each incident. As noted at para. 4 above, in the case of many of the incidents there were contemporaneous evidence and admissions beyond the say-so of the two protagonists, which cast a clear light on the probabilities. In an approach of that kind there was little need or room for the Judge to give weight to any general assessment of Ms Heard's credibility, which is notoriously a more difficult and uncertain basis for deciding on disputed facts. It is pure speculation, and in our view very unlikely, that he gave any weight to general considerations about her character of the kind suggested by Mr Caldecott.

reached a different conclusion if it had been established before him that Ms Heard had given a misleading impression about how much of the $7m which she said that she had donated to charity had in fact been paid. Again, that is essentially because, as we have said, his focus was squarely on the evidence relating to the alleged assaults themselves.

A1 @AH1IC · Sep 9, 2021

The burden of proof lies with Depp, since he is the one making the accusation of defamation. The presumption of innocence is with Amber.

So he does need to prove his case, Amber just needs to cast doubt on his story. It's the reverse of the UK.

The audio of Depp telling her "I headbutted you in the fucking forehead" is pretty damning. As well as his assistant apologising to Amber on his behalf, after he kicked her on a flight.

Fun fact, that snippet was never used by Depp's lawyers. Probably because they are well aware it isn't a confession. It could be talking about making him extremely jealous and upset. Enough to paint messages on a mirror with his own blood, accusing her of cheating on him.

There's your fundamental flaw. She does not need to prove it was intentional.

Depp thought he had the greatest chance at vindication by pursuing the lawsuit in the UK. Because it would come with a reasoned Judgement at the end.

The burden of proof is on him in Virginia. He needs to convince every single juror. It's a fool's errand, as the UK case showed.

NGN used the truth defence, so the burden of proof was put onto them to show that the article they wrote was true.

This is the declaration of the makeup artist. Are you sure you're not thinking of Depp's stylist, who wasn't even in the room while Amber was getting her makeup done by Melanie?

8. When I saw Amber, I immediately noticed that she had a split lip and a bruise near her eye. I also saw that there was a chunk of hair missing from her head. Amber told me that Johnny had tried to suffocate her.

9. Throughout the time I was applying makeup on Amber's injuries, we discussed whether it would be possible to keep the fact of Johnny's violence a secret. Amber repeatedly told me that she did not want to expose this part of her life to the public, and that she was considering canceling the appearance altogether.

10. I also remember that Adir Abergel—Amber's hair stylist—was working on Amber's hair while I did Amber's makeup. Adir and I both discussed how we had noticed that Amber was missing a chunk of hair, and Adir noted that he was being careful to work around the missing chunk and to cover it up.

11. Meanwhile, I was working on Amber's makeup and distinctly remember having no choice but to use a bright red lipstick that day because it was the only way to cover the injury on her lip. I was also able to cover the bruise adjacent to Amber's eye using makeup.

12. After I finished applying her makeup and Adir finished with Amber's hair, we all went to the studio for Amber's appearance on James Corden's show. While there, Amber "turned it on," and hid the emotions that she had shared with us at her Penthouse—as I have seen her act on numerous other occasions—to prevent others from learning about her troubles with Johnny.

Already a lost cause. He declared in both the UK and VA "I have never been violent towards Amber" but conceded under cross examination that he did abuse her. The onus is now on him as Plaintiff to try disprove multiple incidents of abuse when his own words and own witnesses -

32. In sharp contrast, and to take but one example, the Appellant admitted at the trial that he had not even read his own witness statement before signing it, and his admission for during the incident on 15 December 2015, when his witness statement had denied doing so, was devastating (see Judgment at [431]). Amongst extensive other documentary evidence, there was an audio recording of a conversation in San Francisco in which the Appellant said to Ms Heard, "I head-butted you in the fuckin' ... forehead. That doesn't break a nose" (at [429]) and the judge ultimately concluded at [455(iii)] that:

> Mr Depp assaulted Ms Heard. This included head-butting her, as he admitted in the course of his cross-examination, but in my view, it was not the accidental blow which he admitted. That was not what he said in the San Francisco recording and, although I recognise that I must be careful not to attribute too much weight to such out of court remarks, the deliberate nature of the head-butt fits with the other evidence of what took place that evening. I also agree with the Defendants that it is of some significance that Mr Depp did not say to David Heard that he had headbutted his daughter, but accidentally.

To be perfectly honest, I really don't care if you think any of it is damning or not.

NGN's lawyers went after King's credibility. Depp's lawyers barely spoke to Inglessis.

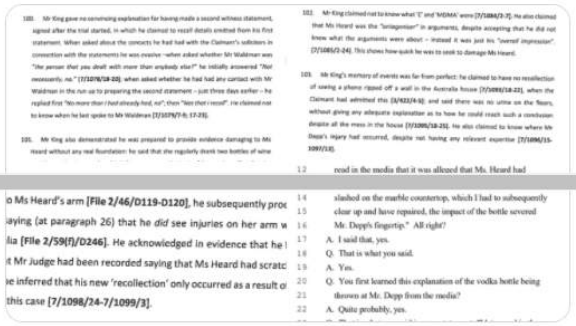
Replying to @TypicalDeviant @WendyG22023093 and 2 others
NGN's lawyers did go after King. And pointed out the problems with his testimony and witness statements.



101. Mr King gave no convincing explanation for having made a second witness statement, signed after the trial started, in which he claimed to recall details omitted from his first statement. When asked about the contacts he had had with the Claimant's solicitors in connection with the statements he was evasive – when asked whether Mr Waldman was "the person that you dealt with more than anybody else?" he initially answered "Not necessarily, no." [7/1076/18-20]; when asked whether he had had any contact with Mr Waldman in the run-up to preparing the second statement – just three days earlier – he replied first "No more than I had already had, no", then "Not that I recall". He claimed not to know when he last spoke to Mr Waldman [7/1079/7-9; 17-23].

101. Mr King also demonstrated he was prepared to provide evidence damaging to Ms Heard without any real foundation: he said that she regularly drank two bottles of wine

102. Mr King claimed not to know what 'E' and 'MDMA' were [7/1084/3-7]. He also claimed that Ms Heard was the "instigator" in arguments, despite accepting that he did not know what the arguments were about – instead it was just his "overall impression". [7/1085/2-24]. This shows how quick he was to seek to damage Ms Heard.

103. Mr King's memory of events was far from perfect: he claimed to have no recollection of seeing a phone ripped off a wall in the Australia house [7/1088/18-22], when the Claimant had admitted this [3/633/4-6]; and said there was no urine on the floors, without giving any adequate explanation as to how he could reach such a conclusion despite all the mess in the house [7/1085/18-25]. He also claimed to know where Mr Depp's injury had occurred, despite not having any relevant expertise [7/1096/15-1097/13].

12 read in the media that it was alleged that Ms. Heard had

o Ms Heard's arm [File 2/46/D119-D120], he subsequently proc aying (at paragraph 26) that he did see injuries on her arm w lia [File 2/59(f)/D246]. He acknowledged in evidence that he t Mr Judge had been recorded saying that Ms Heard had scratc e inferred that his new 'recollection' only occurred as a result o this case [7/1098/24-7/1099/3].

14 slashed on the marble countertop, which I had to subsequently 18 Q. That is what you said.

19 A. Yes.
20 Q. You first learned this explanation of the vodka bottle being

You know "fight back" doesn't automatically mean physically, right?

She stated that every time he knocked her to the floor she would resolve to get back up and look him "straight in the eye". Which led to him squaring up to her.

pulled me to the top, he shoved me a couple of times, making me afraid I would lose my balance and fall down the stairs. I had to get him to stop, so I said that I thought he had broken my wrist, hoping that he would calm down. Unfortunately, that didn't work and he kept on hitting me and shouting. He was extremely angry, getting out of control, and would not stop. He knocked me to the floor, but each time he did that I stood back up. I made a point of looking him straight in the eye. He did not like that, and he yelled at me, something like, "you think you're a fucking tough guy?". He was trying to square off with me, provoking me and berating me saying things like "you want to prove how tough you are?" and "she thinks she is so fucking tough". The last time I got up, he took a step back from me and then headbutted me, hitting me right in the nose with his forehead. I staggered back, completely stunned and instantly felt a searing pain, my eyes teared up and my nose started bleeding. I was in shock. He left me holding my face, bleeding and crying. I thought I would have to go to hospital.

As for the dog eating his pot, he talked about it in the court transcripts.

Like the Boston flight, it shows that his recollection of his own behaviour cannot be trusted. The drugs and alcohol amplified his rage and jealousy.

As for Kipper. Say he stayed from 3-7pm. How would that disprove abuse that took place around 1pm, 9pm? Or 2am?

So he'd rather perjure himself in UK proceedings in 2020, than own up to drug offences (which may have expired) in Australia back in 2015.

And you don't see how that would hurt his credibility?

That would only make sense if David knew what was happening, but he clearly didn't.

Something happened in the early hours of the 8th that led to that disjointed text from Depp. It's completely feasible that the finger injury took place before that time.

- Depp on being calm, sober and drug free
- Deuters on the date the text was sent

Which of those is the most egregious?

That evening was when he lost control. I suspect he cut his own fingertip off at around 4-5am.

Tasya did not see it your way. As is shown by her coming to Amber's defence on the subject years later. Nor does an arrest equate guilt.

Now contrast that with Depp, who plead guilty to assaulting a security guard because he "overreacted during a discussion".

<I> ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT REPORTS FROM THE TIMES, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICES AND THE NATION'S PRESS</I>

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp overreacted during a discussion with the guard. Both the defense and prosecution asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

Amber was arrested for grabbing Tasya's arm. She was held for the night before being released without charge the next day. Because:

Depp actually preferred the UK court, because the result would be in the form of a clear and reasoned judgement.

evidence in the UK, Att. 1. In one of Depp's many requests for relief from sanctions in the UK - this time facing dismissal of his UK lawsuit - Depp contended that to obtain the "vindication" Depp then sought, and now purportedly seeks in this case (Opp'n 22), he preferred the UK Court to the US jury and believed the UK decision would achieve greater vindication for all parties:

> [T]he US proceedings will not produce a clear and reasoned judgment, which is exactly > will deliver a clear and reasoned judgment taking into account a mass of evidence, hearing from the parties and giving your judgment in relation to the 14 different incidents. As I say, Eady J made clear that it is a reasoned judgment that provides the vindication, not just for the claimant but also for the defendant.

Att. 2, at 15. The UK High Court, in granting Depp's request for relief, specifically found:

> I also see force in Mr. Sherborne's [Depp's counsel] points that a reasoned decision (which I shall have to give after the trial) will be a vindication for whatever party is successful of a different order than a bald verdict of a jury. 16 MR. JUSTICE NICOL: Well, one has to be careful.
17 MS. WASS: (To the witness) Had you drunk anything from the bottle 18 that morning before pouring that mega glass of wine?
19 A. In my opinion, since the mega wine was poured from a magnum, 20 quite a large magnum of wine, it is my belief that that was 21 more than likely left over from the night before.
22 Q. Right. Were you under the influence of drugs on that

24 A. No.

8 A. Yes. I am pretty certain, yes.
9 Q. How can you be certain?
10 A. Because I -- by knowing exactly where the incident took place.
11 Q. Where was that?
12 A. That was not downtown. That was at my, I have a house in West 13 Hollywood. That is in Sweetzer.
14 Q. 80 Sweetzer Avenue?
15 A. 1486 Sweetzer, yes.
16 Q. That was there and you are saying, what, you never took drugs
17 at Sweetzer?
18 A. I am -- well, I am unsure of the date of this recording.

8 A. Before the end of our relationship.
9 Q. Right. But I am asking you about whether you had taken
10 cocaine at the time. You have given us, if you will not mind
11 me saying, rather a long explanation which does not help us as 12 to why you are so certain you had not had cocaine on that 13 occasion, when you are behaving, if you do not mind me saying,
14 like a monster?
15 A. I am relatively certain that I was not taking cocaine, because 16 of the time period in which I believe that that was filmed 17 without my knowledge.
18 Q. When do you believe that time period to be?

I was actually being generous to Depp when I described it as a carbon copy. It's actually harder for him in Virginia because the burden of proof has been placed on him.

The officers didn't take notes, got times wrong, didn't see wine spills, and couldn't remember basic details.

idge Linnane accepted that Toppin punched, grabbed and dragged Ms. O'Connell on the night of the assault Is. O'Connell's physical injuries cleared up in a matter of weeks but she continued to suffer from mental auma and experienced flashbacks for months afterwards. She also developed a fear around bouncers.

Is. O'Connell told her barrister, Peter Clein, that she had a glass of wine at a friend's house before going to th rawDaddy nightclub. She told the court that on arrival at the nightclub she went to the foyer to speak to her ther on her phone because she could hear him better there. It was in the foyer that the assault took place.

Is. O'Connell described to the court how Toppin did not speak to her, but instead punched her on the houlder and dragged her out of the club, through a courtyard and up steps, before throwing her against a

<I> ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT REPORTS FROM THE TIMES, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICES AND THE NATION'S PRESS</I>

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp overreacted during a discussion with the guard. Both the defense and prosecution asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

As the court of appeal pointed out, Amber was never questioned about that part of her witness statement. So while Depp's team can try and claim she meant "donated / paid", Amber can counter by saying she meant "donated / pledged".

49. However, to our minds the real difficulty for Mr Depp as regards limb (a) is that Ms Heard was not asked anything about her donation to charity in the course of cross-examination. Even in the absence of the documents now obtained, there would have been nothing improper in Ms Heard being asked whether the totality of the $7m had in fact been paid (as opposed to simply pledged). If she had said that it had not, and had given such figures as she was able to, it could then have been put to her that her witness statement, and the public statements that she had made (which were in the trial bundle), gave a misleading impression. No doubt she would have disputed that, and it would have been for the Judge to make up his mind (if he thought it relevant). We accept that if she had lied and said that the full amount had been paid (though that would have been an enormous risk) it would not have been possible to take the matter further without the documents. But what matters for present purposes is that the question was never put to the test because she was never asked. The situation is not on all fours with any of the Ladd v Marshall cases to which we were referred. However, the underlying principles are based on fairness, and we should take some persuading that it was fair of Mr Depp to seek now to pursue the question of her having made misleading statements about her charity donations when a decision had been made not to ask her about it at trial.

You can believe that all you want. The email clearly states that Elon told the ACLU rep that Amber may have made another donation. They found the anonymous donation and asked if it was hers.

"Yes! sorry! Was not meant to go through Vanguard."

Mystery anonymous donor = Amber

If you're so certain Elon paid it, how did one of the most tech savvy people on earth accidentally send half a million dollars using the wrong DAF?

We'll have to wait and see a) what she says about the donations, b) whether she provides bank details that corroborate her story

It was her donation

[redacted]

Dear Ms. Heard,

Children's Hospital Los Angeles (CHLA) would like to extend our heartfelt appreciation to you for recommending that a $100,000 donation be made to the hospital by an anonymous donor. This extraordinary new donation will support our Children's Fund, a vital unrestricted program that allows CHLA leadership to direct funds to areas of greatest need—all in the furtherance of our mission to create hope and build healthier futures.

CHLA is proud of its ability to attend to the complex medical needs of the more underserved children who turn to us for care, and is only able to do this with the assistance of remarkable friends like you.

Should you find the time, we would welcome the opportunity to offer you a tour of the campus so that you can see—firsthand—the difference our programs and services make in the lives of children and their families every day.

On behalf of every child seeking health and hope at CHLA, thank you!

Sincerely,

Ellen B. Cheney
Director, Foundation Relations

Charges were never filed because the prosecution could not prove their case. Since Tasya was adamant that it wasn't an assault. So no, she wasn't 'proven guilty'.

It was held for 2 years in case they wanted to bring charges, but never did. So it was removed from her record.

On October 2009 the King County Prosecuting attorney (in Washington state) wrote to Seattle police (who, I assume, had carried out the arrest). > 44. We do not accept that there is any ground for believing that the Judge may have been influenced by any such general perception as Mr Caldecott relies on. In the first place, he does not refer to her charitable donation at all in the context of his central findings: on the contrary, he only mentions it in a very particular context, as explained above, and after he had already reached his conclusions in relation to the fourteen incidents. We appreciate, however, that that by itself is not a complete answer to Mr Caldecott's submission. The real answer is that it is clear from a reading of the judgment as a whole that the Judge based his conclusions on each of the incidents on his extremely detailed review of the evidence specific to each incident. As noted at para. 4 above, in the case of many of the incidents there were contemporaneous evidence and admissions beyond the say-so of the two protagonists, which cast a clear light on the probabilities. In an approach of that kind there was little need or room for the Judge to give weight to any general assessment of Ms Heard's credibility, which is notoriously a more difficult and uncertain basis for deciding on disputed facts. It is pure speculation, and in our view very unlikely, that he gave any weight to general considerations about her character of the kind suggested by Mr Caldecott.
> 45. Nor, to address Mr Caldecott's further point, do we believe that the Judge would have reached a different conclusion if it had been established before him that Ms Heard had given a misleading impression about how much of the $7m which she said that she had donated to charity had in fact been paid. Again, that is essentially because, as we have said, his focus was squarely on the evidence relating to the alleged assaults themselves.

Meanwhile, a professional makeup artist testified to seeing Amber's injuries and explained how she helped cover them up before a tv appearance.

8. When I saw Amber, I immediately noticed that she had a split lip and a bruise near her eye. I also saw that there was a chunk of hair missing from her head. Amber told me that Johnny had tried to suffocate her.

9. Throughout the time I was applying makeup on Amber's injuries, we discussed whether it would be possible to keep the fact of Johnny's violence a secret. Amber repeatedly told me that she did not want to expose this part of her life to the public, and that she was considering canceling the appearance altogether.

Amber's hair while I did Amber's makeup. Adir and I both discussed how we had noticed that Amber was missing a chunk of hair, and Adir noted that he was being careful to work around the missing chunk and to cover it up.

11. Meanwhile, I was working on Amber's makeup and distinctly remember having no choice but to use a bright red lipstick that day because it was the only way to cover the injury on her lip. I was also able to cover the bruise adjacent to Amber's eye using makeup.

12. After I finished applying her makeup and Adir finished with Amber's hair, we all went to the studio for Amber's appearance on James Corden's show. While there, Amber "turned it on," and hid the emotions that she had shared with us at her Penthouse—as I have seen her act on numerous other occasions—to prevent others from learning about her troubles with Johnny.

Even though under cross-examination Depp clearly remembered ripping a wall-mounted phone off the wall. And it being "possible" he smashed it using his right hand.

By clicking the link to TMZ in that Daily Mail article, it brings us to the page they are basing their article on. And what do you know, no mention of Amber being on the phone. It said they were both in a villa in Australia.

> Johnny Depp accidentally cut off his fingertip in a fit of rage ... then dipped the stump in dark blue paint and wrote on the wall in paint and blood the name "Billy Bob" -- the actor with whom Johnny accused Amber Heard of cheating -- this according to Amber and her people.
>
> TMZ has obtained this gruesome photo of Johnny's butchered finger -- WARNING ... EXTREMELY DIFFICULT TO LOOK AT. It's an exhibit in her domestic violence case against Johnny.
>
> We're told the incident went down in March of last year, just a month after Amber and Johnny married. They were in a villa in Australia when a fierce argument erupted.
> According to Amber's version of events Johnny, who was drunk and high on ecstasy, smashed several bottles and windows and also slammed a plastic phone against the wall unit. She claims a piece of one of the items cut off a portion of the middle finger on his right hand.

Despite the fact that Depp told the court he has never known her to self-harm. And the Judge pointing out the likely answer is it happened because of all the broken glass

Depp v NGN and Wootton

Heard did cut her arms. I do not accept that the cuts were self-inflicted as Mr Judge speculated in the recording. His (non-expert) view that they were self-inflicted carries little, if any, weight. In any event, Ms Heard had no history of self-harming. A much more likely explanation (and one which I find to be the case) is that they were caused accidentally by the abundance of broken glass in the house. Ms Heard said that her feet were also cut as she also told Ms Pennington. That also is likely to have been the result of the abundant broken glass. Mr Judge also says in the accidental recording that he had seen a bruise on Ms Heard.

It's hard to put a definitive on it when we weren't there.

But he remembers ripping the phone off the wall, while causing $75k worth of damage to the house. Texted people that he cut his fingertip off. And there was no mention of glass shards from a bottle in the medical reports Depp caused the injury to his own fingertip, probably while ripping a phone off the wall and smashing it. Then he continued to destroy the rest of the house and ask for more ecstasy from his loyal assistants.

Let me guess, because of the finger injury?

Even though every single text/email from that time showed that he caused the injury to himself. Probably after he ripped a phone off the wall and smashed it. Then he trashed the house and texted his assistants for more ecstasy.

Depp saw their $5m divorce settlement as charges being dropped. And talked of Amber being in breach of their agreement "if she releases anything"

He was so scared of what she could release that he had her agree to a strict NDA as part of the settlement.

#JohnnyDeppIsAWifeBeater

19 On 16th August, Mr. Depp sent a text to Dr. Kipper:

4 Then, on 3rd September, there is an e-mail which we

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

In June 2018, 8 months prior to filing this case, Plaintiff Depp sued for libel in the UK, predicated on the same set of facts at issue in this case. Depp sued The Sun Newspaper for calling him a "wife beater" and sought a determination that he did not commit domestic violence against his wife, Amber Heard. After extensive discovery and a three-week trial, where the burden of proof was on the Defendants to prove the allegations were true, the London Court, in a 129-page, 585 paragraph Opinion, Att. A to JN,[1] found that Mr. Depp had engaged in at least 12 acts of requested permission to appeal (a motion to reconsider), which was denied. Att. B to JN. Mr. Depp then appealed to the Courts of Appeal. Counsel argued before a panel of two Appellate Judges, claiming both new evidence and error. By Orders dated March 25 and 31, 2021, as amended April 6, 2021, the Appellate Court denied Depp's final appeals. Atts. C and D to JN. With the finality of the Judgment, rendered after Mr. Depp presented his best evidence and arguments on the exact same factual issues asserted here, Mr. Depp should be precluded from seeking yet another bite of the apple, where he has fully adjudicated his dispute, and lost. Because of the UK Judgment, the entire world may now say, forever, that Mr. Depp is a "wife beater" and has committed at least 12 acts of domestic violence against Amber Heard, causing her to be in fear for her life. 1. In early 2013, Depp slapped and after she made a joke about his "Wino Forever" tattoo

2. In March 2013, the actor flew into a rage while high on drugs grabbing her by the throat
10. In December 2015, Depp chucked a glass decanter at Amber at their LA home in a drug binge. He also slapped her and dragged her through the apartment by her hair - ripping a chunk out. He then hit her

Conclusion and summary

584. It follows that this claim is dismissed.

585. The Claimant has not succeeded in his action for libel. Although he has proved the necessary elements of his cause of action in libel, the Defendants have shown that what they published in the meaning which I have held the words to bear was substantially true. I have reached these conclusions having examined in detail the 14 incidents on which the Defendants rely as well as the overarching considerations which the Claimant submitted I should take into account. In those circumstances, Parliament has said that a defendant has a complete defence. It has not been necessary to consider the fairness of the article or the defendants' 'malice' because those are immaterial to the statutory defence of truth. The parties will have an opportunity to make submissions in writing as to the precise terms of the order which should follow my decision.

And Depp pleaded guilty to assaulting a security guard back in 1989. His lawyers explained that Depp "overreacted during a discussion with the guard"

<I> ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT REPORTS FROM THE TIMES, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICES AND THE NATION'S PRESS</I>

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp overreacted during a discussion with the guard. Both the defense and prosecution asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

Because of the UK Judgment, the entire world may now say, forever, that Mr. Depp is a "wife beater" and has committed at least 12 acts of domestic violence against Amber Heard, causing her to be in fear for her life. In short, the UK Judgment, now final, permits this Court to end this litigation.

Ms. Heard seeks leave of this Court to Amend her Answer & Grounds of Defense ("Am Ans") and file a Supplemental Plea in Bar, under Rules 1:8 and 1:9, to include affirmative defenses as a result of the UK Judgment, seeking to recognize and apply those decisions to this case. These defenses are asserted at ¶13 of the Am Ans,[2] that Mr. Depp's claims are barred and should be dismissed based on the doctrines of comity, collateral estoppel, issue and claim preclusion, res judicata and statutory law. Depp is not prejudiced, and Ms. Heard asserting and fully siring these defenses will promote the ends of justice by preventing an enormous waste of Judicial and litigant

[1] "JN" denotes attachments to the Notice of Judicial Notification of Adjudicated Facts and Law Impacting this Case.

During an alcohol and drug binge in Australia, Johnny Depp physically and sexually assaulted Amber Heard. He trashed the house and cut his own fingertip off, then used his own blood to graffiti messages.

But his PR tried to convince you she cut his fingertip off.

Despite losing his libel case in the UK and being branded a wife-beater, Johnny Depp's PR machine has tricked many into believing he was the victim.

A man who headbutted, kicked, punched and sexually assaulted his wife.

Enough is enough.

You can imagine that. But whether it is medically accurate for the injury she sustained is unproven.

So again, Amber can say 'it had healed somewhat in the 15 days prior, but I was still in some pain so I was taking ibuprofen at the time'. How do Depp's legal team counter that?

Oh I know, I'm just getting at the idea that those photos are some sort of silver bullet for that incident.

If Amber says she was still in some pain when those photos were taken and was just managing it with pain meds, how does Depp's team counter that?

Assuming his legal team uses those photos in court, asking how she is ocean tubing if she claims to have bruised ribs.

'It had mostly healed by that stage. Though I was still taking ibuprofen to help ease the remaining pain.'

Then what?

Yes. I'm not suggesting the mattress is some sort of magic. Just that it obviously dampens pressure because the mattress itself is flexible.

Punching her in the back of the head could cause bruising and potentially a concussion.

A1 @AH1IC · May 26, 2021

Replying to @TypicalDeviant @DeppetLuna and 3 others

Of course I have. The splintered piece is sitting on the floor having been broken off the top of the bed frame. Exactly where you'd expect his foot to cause the damage.

Enough pressure to snap off part of the bed frame. Which is entirely possible from him shifting his weight onto the edge of the frame.

And obviously more damage would be done to the hand resting on a solid surface, opposed to a soft mattress. Because the frame is inflexible.

A1 @AH1IC · May 26, 2021
Replying to @TypicalDeviant @DeppetLuna and 3 others
Lol, okay mate...

Back in reality, he probably put his foot down on the frame to brace himself. And since the frame isn't going to move, unlike the mattress, the pressure snapped part of it off.

"gravitational energy to his punches" that's the weirdest way I've ever heard someone describe 'punching down'...

He was kneeling on her back with his whole weight. But on top of a soft mattress.

He then braced by putting his foot on a solid frame, breaking an edge piece off.

Taking ibuprofen and applying ice is exactly what is recommended. And while the suggestion is to avoid ibuprofen for the first 48 hours because it may slow down healing, it isn't a certainty.

"Bruised or broken ribs can be very painful, but usually heal by themselves"

Broken or bruised ribs heal in the same way and usually get better by themselves within 3 to 6 weeks.

There are some things you can do to help ease pain and speed up healing:

Do

- take painkillers, such as paracetamol or ibuprofen – avoid taking ibuprofen for 48 hours after your injury as it may slow down healing
- hold an ice pack (or a bag of frozen peas in a tea towel) to the affected ribs regularly in the first few days to bring down swelling
- rest and take time off work if you need to
- breathe normally and cough when you need to – this helps clear mucus from your lungs to prevent chest infections
- if you need to cough, hold a pillow against your chest
- walk around and sometimes move your shoulders to help you breathe and clear mucus from your lungs
- take 10 slow, deep breaths every hour to help clear your
- try to sleep more upright for the first few nights

A1 @AH1IC · May 26, 2021
Replying to @DeppetLuna @TypicalDeviant and 3 others
It would depend on how bad the injury was and how much pain medication she was taking at the time to deal with it. We know Erin Boreum advised her to apply ice and also take ibuprofen ever 4-6 hours.

Bruised ribs can fully heal in 21 days, that photo was day 15 of healing.

Cool. Here's some information from the NHS about bruised ribs. Symptoms include "sometimes bruising on the skin" but not always. It can be identified by other factors.

As for bruising in general, everybody's different. There's no set time that they will appear and vanish.

Bruised or broken ribs can be very painful, but usually heal by themselves.

Check if you have a bruised or broken rib

Broken or bruised ribs are usually caused by a fall, a blow to the chest or severe coughing.

Symptoms include:

- strong pain in your chest area, particularly when you breathe in
- swelling or tenderness around the affected ribs
- sometimes bruising on the skin
- feeling or hearing a crack if it's a broken rib

Ribs cannot be easily splinted or supported like other bones, so they're usually left to heal naturally.

There's often no need for an X-ray.

Things you can do yourself

Broken or bruised ribs heal in the same way and usually get better by themselves within 3 to 6 weeks.

MR. JUSTICE NICOL: Go back to Australia?

A. Yes, go back to Australia, return to Australia from Los Angeles. So I sat down with Johnny and I asked him to do that. He respectfully said no. Amber, I think, was in New York, I am not sure, but she was not in Los Angeles. She was coming back in a few days' time and he wanted to wait for her to return. I think she had asked him to and he wanted to wait as well so we did not come to -- we had not an argument, but a disagreement on the fact. I was irritated because I thought we needed to go back. I thought that was the right thing to do. I left the apartment that day and a day or so later, myself and my wife travelled without them separately, commercially, to Australia to wait for them there. Yes, I recall that very clearly and it was a few days later that they appeared in Australia with the dogs.

What is it you want me to respond to? The paragraph in this image that says:

"Heard's affidavit says she was in the UK filming a movie from Feb.27 until April 6."

Johnny Depp was under 24-hour care while recovering from injury in LA after trip to Gold Coast last year

In a sworn affidavit lodged the day before her 'doggygate' trial in Southport Magistrates Court, Depp's wife, Amber Heard, said she returned from New York to Los Angeles on April 18, 2015, to find her husband under 24-hour medical watch for injured finger. Ms Heard wrote in the affidavit.

Heard's affidavit says she was in the UK filming a movie from Feb. 27 until April 6.

She says "on or about" April 6, she travelled to New York to promote her role in another movie. She says she did not return to LA until "on or about" April 18.

Senior production sources told the Gold Coast Bulletin last year Depp injured his hand on March 7-8 at the luxurious Coomera property he was renting from Mick Doohan.
Depp returned to the US on March 11 to seek treatment.

Ms Heard wrote in her affidavit that Johnny had flown back to the US for surgery "after injuring his hand badly while working on the film".

JOHNNY Depp was under 24-hour medical care after he returned to right hand, court documents reveal.

That photo is from their trip in 2013.

The incident we're talking about was in 2015.

49. The Defendants also allege that on or around January 25th, 2015 I "shoved Ms Heard, slapped her, and grabbed her by her hair" when we were in a hotel room in Tokyo. They state that, allegedly, when she tried to stand up, I "muscled her back to the floor, stood over her and yelled."

50. Ms Heard and I were in Tokyo in or around January 25th, 2015 but at no point did I shove, slap or grab Ms Heard by the hair. As I explained above, I have never hit her in my life. My memory of the trip is that it passed without incident and Ms Heard was in unusually good spirits throughout. In fact, my children were on the trip with us and, as I have discussed above, it was always essential to me to ensure that my children do not witness even raised voices. I would have made sure of that.

Similarly, Depp was unaware he was being recorded when he said he headbutted Amber. He was given the chance to explain his position, but Nicol didn't believe him because the audio corresponded with other evidence he was given. Plus it contradicted Depp's own witness statement.

The audio is useful in that it can correspond with evidence given by others.

Without the ability to question him on it, I don't see how we can accurately determine if he was being entirely honest or dishonest in what he said.

Yet according to the transcript made by the Daily Mail, and the version used in court (which Depp's lawyers agreed upon), Jerry Judge said this:

Inexplicably, Brian thought they were talking about "settees"...

You've made the jump to "intentionally keeping it from him", without any evidence to back it up. You have no idea what their intentions were and you certainly can't prove it.

Amber not making the call is something that needs to be put to her. There's no point in us speculating.

A1 @AH1IC · May 5, 2021

Well if you want to claim iO lied then you need to prove that he knew Depp had left the Penthouse and that the threat was over.

Saying 'well there were probably texts Wass left out' doesn't quite cut it.

So at what point do you think they found out that Depp had left the building, and then informed iO of his departure?

Bearing in mind it isn't in any texts from that time window, and no calls were made to iO.

So what time do you think Amber, Raquel and Josh became aware he had left the Penthouse?

So now you're basing it on texts that you can't see, but believe were sent?

If iO wasn't told that Depp left the building, and you can't prove he was told, then he had every reason to believe there was still an ongoing threat.

Probably talking about her blood on the floor.

I'd like to hear the proper audio. I don't trust Brian since he has a history of chopping up audio to suit his agenda.

I don't get what the point of this is? Josh didn't end up calling the police, because 2 minutes after iO suggested it the first set of officers arrived. And he didn't say "lie to them" anyway.

The calls were made at 20:16-20:23 and 20:25. By iO and Lauren.

Depp even said that MDMA doesn't do much to him.

So you'd expect that if he was taking them in Australia, like his texts imply, it would probably be in large quantities.

A. On the trip to Hicksville, there was, of course there was alcohol. In general, everybody had their drug of choice so there were some people doing MDMA, mushrooms. I was drinking myself and I was smoking marijuana. I ingested three, probably three little, as they call them, stems of the mushrooms, but to no effect.
Q. I think you had a quantity of white powder with you?
A. I was not using cocaine at Hicksville.
Q. What about MDMA?
A. I did not do any MDMA at Hicksville because it would have been a waste of time. It does not do much to me.

Mr JOHN DEPP.

Dear [redacted],

[redacted] RESUS presented to the Emergency Department at Gold Coast University Hospital on the 8 MAR 2015 at 16:20. The presenting problem was INJURY.

The diagnosis was # OF FINGER

Thanks for seeing and treating this patient. He sustained a injury to his right middle finger tonight after accidentally cutting it with a kitchen knife. He has an oblique de-tipping injury that commences distal to the DIPJ on the ulnar side and runs obliquely to the midline of the tip of the finger. Xray shows a comminuted # of the tuft and an oblique fracture more proximally suggestive a crushing mechanism. His doctor did bring in a small fragment of tissue that felt abnormally firm - hard and was felt to be unsuitable for a graft. He had a ringj block with ropivicaine and the wound was cleaned by Dr [redacted] (plastic / hand surgeon) after further supplementation of the ring block with additional bupivicaine. His tetanus was updated and he received a single dose of iv ticarcillin-clavulanate 3.1 g.
Unfortunately he will not be able to continue working until the finger is well healed and this will be several weeks. His private doctor has a supply of augmentin and wil administer twice daily.
He will be followed up tomorrow by Dr [redacted] and surgical options discussed.

In his witness statement Depp, despite his very partial memory of the flight, claimed he didn't try to kick Amber. He just reached out to "tap her playfully on the bottom", but he wasn't sure if he even made contact.

38. Further, given where I was sitting and the layout of the plane, it was physically impossible for me to have kicked Ms Heard in the back causing her to fall over. In fact what happened is that when Ms Heard stood up at some stage during the flight, I stretched my leg out to tap her playfully on the bottom with my foot to non-verbally communicate something along the lines of "hey, c'mon let's get past this" in an attempt to make light of the argument and to try to defuse the situation, but I do not believe I was able to reach her. Ms Heard saw my attempt, however, and immediately took great offence at this act and continued to verbally berate me and gesticulate at me. Eventually, Mr Stephen Deuters, my personal assistant, and Mr Jerry Judge, my security guard, intervened to calm down Ms Heard. I believe that Mr Judge took conversation with Mr Deuters. I then took a pillow with me to the bathroom, locked the door

INCIDENT 4: Boston to LA flight

Amber claims that Depp was drunk and high on this flight, and became verbally and physically aggressive toward her. Kicking her to the ground

Depp claimed that he remembered this flight in "great detail", and it was Amber who was being aggressive on the flight, but my behavior was not as alleged at all. As I explained by text message a few days later on May 27th, 2014 to my sister, Christi Dembrowski, after Ms Heard had tried to suggest to Ms Dembrowski that I should see a doctor (page 7 of Exhibit JD2):

"No reason for her to speak to anyone, let alone a doctor…I'm done. Her actions have added more drama than necessary and when was I unhealthy, exactly??? When I was not sober for a day??? Hmmm… I guess that's what people call falling off the wagon…It's happened to a lot of my friends…Their wives don't stop calling them."

37. Ms Heard and I were seated at the central table in the cabin. I was drawing art sketches in my notebook, as I like to do when travelling, when Ms Heard began to harangue me. I cannot remember exactly what she was saying but it was the usual abusive stuff. Ms Heard progressed into a continuous verbal barrage with which I did not engage and instead continued sketching. Throughout the course of our relationship, Ms Heard would often look to argue with me, berate me or abuse me verbally and physically. By the time at which the flight took place, I had worked out that the best way to deal with this was simply to not engage and to try to retreat from the situation, as I have stated above.

So his assertion that he wouldn't take drugs or even raise his voice while his children were nearby no longer serves any purpose for this incident.

The next morning Depp gave the press a bizarre excuse for missing the press conference the previous day. Joking that he was attacked by a Chupacabra, a mythical 'monster', which he fought with "for hours".

"I threw him off the 23rd floor. So we'll never see him again."

The 51-year-old actor was all smiles while joking Wednesday with journalists in Tokyo about why that wasn't the reason.

"I was attacked yesterday morning by a very rarely seen or experienced animal called 'chupacabra.' I fought with it for hours. They're very persistent, very mean. And I'm pretty sure it came into my suitcase. I threw him off the 23rd floor. So we'll never see him again. Thank you for understanding," he said. The chupacabra is a legendary creature rumoured to inhabit parts of the Americas.

He plays the perfectly polished art dealer Charlie in his new film, but art certainly isn't imitating life for Johnny Depp.

The actor arrived at the Japanese premiere for Mortdecai in Tokyo on Tuesday, looking more like the frontman of an alternative rock band than a Hollywood star.

Johnny arrived with a rather greasy looking mop of hair while his stunning fiancée Amber Heard look chic in a red high-neck gown.

Sure enough, on the 27th of January Depp failed to attend a press conference. Journalists, who had been waiting for over two hours, were told that Depp had 'fallen sick' after arriving in Japan the day before.

Depp's personal assistant remembers it differently though. He recalls there being some sort of argument in their hotel room, which led to Depp being "late" for a press conference that day.

12 Q. About "...he was appalled and when I told him he kicked you, Depp denied this. Stating that his memory of the trip was that "it passed without incident". And that he wouldn't have been taking drugs or even raised his voice while his children were in an adjoining room.

25 January 2015

49. The Defendants also allege that on or around January 25th, 2015 I "shoved Ms Heard, slapped her, and grabbed her by her hair" when we were in a hotel room in Tokyo. They state that, allegedly, when she tried to stand up, I "muscled her back to the floor, stood over her and yelled."

50. Ms Heard and I were in Tokyo in or around January 25th, 2015 but at no point did I shove, slap or grab Ms Heard by the hair. As I explained above, I have never hit her in my life. My memory of the trip is that it passed without incident and Ms Heard was in unusually good spirits throughout. In fact, my children were on the trip with us and, as I have discussed above, it was always essential to me to ensure that my children do not witness even raised voices. I would have made sure of that.

Amber claimed that during this trip, while Depp was high on illegal drugs, he flew into a rage in their hotel room and slapped her, then wrestled her to the floor.

Tokyo, January 2015

94. Johnny had a premiere in Toyko for a film he had done called Mortdecai. He was using drugs at the time, a lot of pills and probably other things in retrospect. But I couldn't ask him about it as that was a trigger.

95. We were in a hotel room and I can't remember what he was upset about, but it ended up with him in a rage about something, and he slapped me. It was really upsetting because it wasn't even clear exactly what he was upset about. There was a tussle and he wrestled me to the floor. I was on the ground and I started weeping. He was screaming at me. I was sitting on the floor crying and I put my head in my hands. I don't remember how it ended.

96. For a while after that things got a bit better. It was so up and down that it became just how things were – fights and a violent incident, followed by a period where he was better. I was almost relieved after a big fight because I knew there would be a period of calm. After these incidents of violence, he would say the monster was gone, but it always happened again. He would write notes declaring his love and making all of these effusive promises that it would never happen again, that he had killed the monster.

That incident happened in Sept '15. So, as the three High Court Judges agreed, Amber had already been abused by Depp on 9 separate occasions.

Those incidents included Depp slapping, hitting, kicking, choking, and even sexually assaulting Amber.

A1 @AH1IC · Apr 21, 2021

No, but she sees a difference between "punch" and "hit", which we obviously can't see with the audio.

Should she have hit him? No. But I'd also be wary of condemning a victim of abuse because they reacted to physical pain caused by their abuser.

Neutrally, yes that's what happened, though Amber specified that she "hit" him rather than a "punch". Amber discussed it further during the trial.

tape, is that it was in defence. You are seeing two things here, Ms. Laws. You are saying an example, an excerpt of a conversation which I would say reflects one of many conversations that Johnny and I had during the course of our relationship. It is also, as you admitted, was taken out of a bigger context but I will do my best to explain. In this particular moment, as Johnny was falling on to the door or falling on to the floor and screaming incoherently. I did not

me. If you knew how it was, have communication with Johnny about our violence or our fights or anything in between, I knew better than to fight with him about the details of the fight and what he perceived as insult, injuries, or grievances that fallen on him. My job was to just try to say, sorry, and let us move on to the bigger point. Let us keep him on track and talk about the other things. I had to, or else I would know it was happening, if he was passing out again. I had previously slept and rested next to the door, locked doors, in order to make sure he did not choke on his vomit while passed out. He falls against a door, it opens briefly, I try to get into the bathroom. I think we might have all done this, where someone on the other side cannot see you, you make contact with each other on the door, Johnny either pushes or falls against it and it runs over my toes. I, because there is a door and him coming against me, pushing more on to my feet and more on to me, I do anything I can out of instinct to push the door and the weight of the door off of me in order to, in order to get that off of me and causing more damage. That was finish the conversation with Johnny, I would have made him more mad, more enraged and he would have gotten even more violent with me.

Q. Every time you are faced with a record or a tape of you admitting to violence, or starting fights, you turn it around and say you are defending yourself, do you not; that is what you do, is it not?

A. I was there, and I remember it. I am just giving you context.

Q. Because in that tape you are clearly saying that you hit him?

A. I had to make contact with his arms in order to prevent him from hurting me worse. That happens in these situations.

'I tried to close the door three times, you know, please, please, just do you know.

'And then, wait and then, then I, I, I, I accidentally, I swear when I was trying to close the door, I guess it scraped your toes.

'I didn't, you know, I didn't mean to do that. I don't know. I bent down and you either pushed or you kicked.

'I think you kicked the door open. I mean the door. Yeah, more open so that it would hit me and it hit me.'

Depp is prepared to accept that the door smashing part of his accusation could have been unintentional.

But as for the alleged punch: 'I then stood up. I don't even know if I said, I mean, I might've said like, what the fk, you know, whatever. Cause I'd just been hit in the head with a fking corner of the door.

Wass: You see, Mr. Depp, Ms. Heard had seen alcohol turn you into the monster, and she did not want it to happen, and she would try to stop you drinking at all. That is why she had reached this position.

Depp: Again, I cannot speak for her motivation exactly. But I can say that she was very controlling in that way, very, very --

It was a hell of my own doing, but your little girl walked through with me step by step. I know you are already proud of her, but if you had seen her in action, amazing. The context of her hitting him, which they both agreed, was that Depp pushed a door over the top of her toes... trapping them underneath. Amber pushed the door off her toes and hit him "in response to the door thing".

That's why he says "how are your toes? Your poor toes"

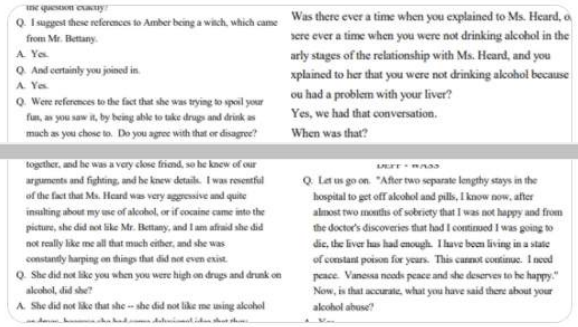
They were not 'venting about an abuser'. It was about Amber wanting him to stop taking cocaine and drinking alcohol. Because she saw the effect those substances had on him. And she knew his Doctor told him his liver couldn't take anymore, it could be fatal to keep drinking.



the question exactly?
Q. I suggest these references to Amber being a witch, which came from Mr. Bettany.
A. Yes.
Q. And certainly you joined in.
A. Yes.
Q. Were references to the fact that she was trying to spoil your fun, as you saw it, by being able to take drugs and drink as much as you chose to. Do you agree with that or disagree?

Was there ever a time when you explained to Ms. Heard, o ere ever a time when you were not drinking alcohol in the arly stages of the relationship with Ms. Heard, and you xplained to her that you were not drinking alcohol because ou had a problem with your liver?
Yes, we had that conversation.
When was that?

together, and he was a very close friend, so he knew of our arguments and fighting, and he knew details. I was resentful of the fact that Ms. Heard was very aggressive and quite insulting about my use of alcohol, or if cocaine came into the picture, she did not like Mr. Bettany, and I am afraid she did not really like me all that much either, and she was constantly harping on things that did not even exist.
Q. She did not like you when you were high on drugs and drunk on alcohol, did she?
A. She did not like that she -- she did not like me using alcohol

Q. Let us go on. "After two separate lengthy stays in the hospital to get off alcohol and pills, I know now, after almost two months of sobriety that I was not happy and from the doctor's discoveries that had I continued I was going to die, the liver has had enough. I have been living in a state of constant poison for years. This cannot continue. I need peace. Vanessa needs peace and she deserves to be happy." Now, is that accurate, what you have said there about your alcohol abuse?

If he wasn't charged, then how did he plead guilty to an assault charge?

Whichever way the prosecution and victim were convinced to ask for a discharge is irrelevant, Depp still assaulted him because he "overreacted".

LEGAL FILE

<I> ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT REPORTS FROM THE TIMES, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICES AND THE NATION'S PRESS</I>

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp overreacted during a discussion with the guard. Both the defense and prosecution asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

#JohnnyDepp also plead guilty to assaulting a security guard back in 1989 after a party in his hotel room. His lawyer said Depp "overreacted during a discussion with the guard."

Yet people still can't believe he abused #AmberHeard, even when out of his mind on alcohol and drugs.

It wasn't really the same lighting though. You can see an extra light creeping into the shot in the right hand one. Which will obviously have a knock on effect on the final photo. Small changes can make a big difference, especially if it was taken with a phone.

Depp v Wootton and NGN
Summary of Judgement

The judge's task was to find if Johnny Depp had abused Amber Heard on at least one occasion for NGN to have proven that the words they published were true.
They proved 12.

Depp v Wootton and NGN: Summary of Judgment

Meaning

- The judge rejected JD's case that the article additionally meant that JD was unfit to work in the film industry. Accordingly NGN did not need to prove this to be true.

Defence of truth

- In a 130 page judgment, the judge concluded that NGN had successfully proved the article to be substantially true, so the claim has been dismissed.

I wasn't suggesting you would endorse his Judgement. But given you see little distinction between sexual assault and rape, doesn't that mean you think Nicol found (wrongfully, in your opinion) that he had raped her in Australia?

If he flipped it onto the sofa and walked away, he can't have thought he hit

So the only way this can make sense now is if he threw it without looking. In which case he cannot be certain it didn't hit her. As the text suggests.

He also said flipped. But that's not really the point. It's whether he was aware where the phone went after it left his hand.

In his WS and initial filing in VA, he claimed it landed 4 feet away from her.

But in that text he had "no idea she wouldn't just catch it" etc > eyewitnesses and photographs) as a figment of my imagination. Hearing enough, I took the phone from Ms. Heard. I said into the phone to iO Tillett Wright: "I don't care, it's over." I flipped the phone onto the sofa, and it landed about 4 feet away from where Ms. Heard was sitting. And indeed, even Ms. Heard admitted this occurred in just this way, testifying "he, you know, like tossed it [the phone] on – in --- tossed it in my direction or something on the table or on the couch." After tossing the phone onto the sofa, I turned around and walked to the other end of the open floor plan room, to the island in the kitchen, approximately 20 feet away from Ms. Heard. Ms. Heard immediately started loudly proclaiming that I had thrown the phone at her and hit her in the face, and screaming "Johnny stop hitting me." I turned to look at Amber trying to

That and "i had no idea she wouldn't just catch it" is a little bit different to his witness statement though, where he said he flipped it onto the sofa then walked away.

Note that Depp is the one that is withholding audio to avoid self-incrimination. (He claims that is to avoid charges for recording without consent) But the statute of limitations for that has long passed.

A. Requests for Audio and Video Recordings/Transcripts of Ms. Heard

- Fourth RFP 1 seeks "All audio and video recordings including Ms. Heard. Note: It has been represented by Depp's UK counsel that Mr. Depp has 50-51 recordings that include Ms. Heard."
- Fourth RFP 2 seeks "All transcripts of any recordings from any audio and video recordings including Ms. Heard."

Att. 1. As noted in Ms. Heard's prior Motion to Compel, these "50-51" recordings were made 4 to 8 years ago and should have been produced long-ago. Mr. Depp agreed to produce responsive, non-privileged documents, but has stated that he intends to "review and withhold" many of these recordings on Fifth Amendment grounds, because he made these recordings without Ms. Heard's consent, which is a crime in California.

As a matter of law, Mr. Depp cannot rely on the Fifth Amendment to avoid producing all such recordings simply because Cal. Penal Code § 632(a) requires two-party consent. The "Fifth Amendment's privilege against self-incrimination does not apply after the relevant limitations period has expired." Stogner v. California, 539 U.S. 607, 608 (2003) (citing Brown v. Walker, 161 U.S. 591, 597–598 (1896)); see also Zebbs v. Commonwealth, 66 Va. App. 368, 377 (2016) ("In Brown v. Walker…, the Supreme Court observed that, aside from waiver, expiration of the applicable statute of limitations for the conduct described can operate to remove the protections against compelled self-incrimination."). The criminal statute of limitations for violations of Cal. Penal Code § 632(a) is "three [(3)] years after commission of the offense." See Cal. Penal Code § 801. Because these recordings were made between four to eight years ago, the statute of limitations has expired, and Mr. Depp is barred from relying on the Fifth Amendment. Accordingly, Mr. Depp should be ordered to produce all recordings without regard to his

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

It's because the Prosecution couldn't prove it, as well as the fact they weren't residents of Washington. The Judge gave them a two year window to bring it back and they didn't.

So she was never charged. Never found guilty. And no, she didn't plead guilty.

So again. INCORRECT.

INCORRECT.

She was arrested but never charged. As the prosecution couldn't prove it, since Tasya said it was nonsense.

And Depp was arrested in 1989 for assaulting a security guard. He plead guilty.

xv) Mr Depp admitted in his evidence ripping a telephone off the wall.

xvi) I do not accept that Ms Heard was responsible for the injury to Mr Depp's finger. The first account appears to have been in Mr Depp's text to Dr Kipper. It is notable in that text that he says he cut his finger, not that she cut it. Mr Connolly said that Mr Depp told him on his arrival that Ms. Heard had caused the injury to his finger, but that is not what Mr Depp said in his text to Dr Kipper. Nor did Mr Depp say that Ms Heard had been responsible for the injury to his finger in either of his two texts to sister Christi on 8th March 2015. What exactly caused the injury is uncertain. Mr King spoke of there being a great deal of broken glass around and it may well be that Mr Depp accidentally cut his finger on a piece of broken glass. As is apparent from Mr Connolly's evidence, there was much discussion on the way to the hospital as to what (false) explanation could be given. Mr Dreiters is undoubtedly right that this was a potential public relations catastrophe for Mr Depp. It seems that the hospital was told that Mr Depp had cut his finger accidentally. I do not accept that this untrue account was given simply to spare Ms Heard as the real abuser.

The audio of him 'howling' was from the plane journey where he kicked her, because he was so heavily intoxicated he passed out in the bathroom. The metadata shows that.

Amber followed the Dr/Nurse's instructions and gave him the medicine at the proper time. And he thanked her.

Mr. Depp's account in his witness statement was that he was quietly sketching in his notebook during this plane trip, recording was made on that plane by Ms. Heard. My Lord will recall that in her June 2013 e-mail, she mentioned that really Mr. Depp had no recollection of things, and he was told or if there was a record of what he had done, and she said "If someone filmed when you were in this state, you would be mortified." On the Boston plane incident, she recorded him when he went to the bathroom, and my Lord will remember that recording. We suggest the metadata date of 24th May is accurate. The sounds of the plane are apparent from the recording, and there are sounds of male voices there, none of that is consistent with Mr. Depp's suggestion that this took place when he was having his detoxification on the island

Depp said himself it was because Amber was nagging him to stop taking cocaine and drinking too much. Nothing to do with abuse.

Those payments were halted by the Judge in 2016 after the first $100k, because Depp was breaking the terms of their agreement by doing it that way.

3:30am, probably not many people walking around. Staff or passengers.

But besides that, you don't know how many other passengers were in their carriage, if any. Or how soundproof each cabin is. Given it's a luxury train, the comparison to a townhome isn't that useful.

iii) It is plain from these texts that this argument was not simply a verbal argument. She speaks of them 'getting violent again'.

iv) It is also plain from what Ms Lloyd said in her texts that there was violence on both sides. Ms Heard has accepted that she punched Mr Depp, but it is clear from Ms Lloyd's texts that she was not the sole aggressor. As Ms Lloyd said, 'We had to restrain both of them.'

v) However, Ms Lloyd makes no mention of Mr Depp being struck on the back by a can of Red Bull. Either this did not happen, or the force of the blow was so minimal that it was not worth Ms Lloyd referring to it. Either way it is of no consequence.

I can say that there were incidents where, for example, the time allotted for me to take my medication by the nurse or by Ms. Heard, if it were 4 p.m. on the dot to take those, and it was 3.15, and I began to get the heeby-jeebies, for lack of a better explanation, I have told Ms. Heard that I needed the meds as it was starting to come one, the ----

Because Ms. Heard followed the letter of the instructions that she was given to give your medication at four o'clock and did not do what you asked for, to give it at 3.15, you describe that as one of the cruellest things she has ever done; is that right?

2016 was pre-metoo, so I'm not sure how much clout it gave her by accusing one of the most well loved actors in Hollywood. It also didn't help her career as she already had roles in Justice League and Aquaman before they split up.

As Amber and Whitney said in court, they were raised that no matter what, you don't leave a marriage. That's because their mother was abused by their father during his struggles with addiction.

They were trying to save the marriage.

He doesn't have a history of abusing his partners. Neither does Amber.

Depp did plead guilty to assault in 1989 though. His lawyer explained Depp "overreacted during a conversation with the guard".

Actor Johnny Depp got off scot-free with an absolute discharge after pleading guilty in a Vancouver, British Colombia, court to an assault charge. The 25-year-old star of the Fox television series "21 Jump Street" was charged last March after a confrontation with a security guard following a hotel party. Depp's lawyer, Richard Israels, told provincial court his client regrets the incident. Depp, who plays an undercover officer on the TV show, knows he didn't live up to the responsibility of being an American allowed to work in Canada, said Israels. The lawyer said Depp asked the judge on Thursday to grant a discharge, which means Depp will have no record of a conviction. The guard, David Sulina, said outside court he thought the verdict was "fair. It wasn't a major assault."

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

The cops that arrested Amber did so because they saw her grab Tasya's arm. But the case went no further because the prosecution couldn't prove the contact was offensive contact was offensive.

Two years went by and they never brought it back. So Amber legally removed it from her record.

As Nicol noted, the recordings weren't under oath, and it's purpose wasn't clear.

But we know the time she admitting hitting him was caused by Depp pushing a door over her toes. He can be heard making fun of her for it in the same audio.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

De Cadenet chose not to be a witness because she didn't like what she heard in the audio. Amber explained it was edited (which it was) but Amanda wanted a better explanation.

Texts from May '16 show her concern for Amber, and advice for reducing her injuries.

20:42	Texts from Amanda de Cadenet to AH: Hi sweetheart. Thank you for coming today despite what you are dealing with. Babe this is a moment that we dread. But it's here. You can take care of yoursefl even if you feel scared. This is the time to choose YOU. I would like to understand why you have to do anything legal today. Can you do nothing for tonight. Just make sure you are safe.
	I love you. Thank you for saying that and for being there for me even on your special day. I am so sorry I hijacked it even for a moment with any of my drama. I love you so much and I hope that you felt as loved prescient it and honored as you are and deserve to be. And as far as my situation goes, Thank you so much for reminding me it's about me and to choose me. It is so hard sometimes to remember that,... In fact I seem to forget it every second these days.... I love you so much. I'm going to make some decisions tomorrow. I just want to sleep tonight,,, or tru to. Jesus, How much this hurts.
20:57	Text from Amanda de Cadenet to AH: Sleeping sounds like the best thing right now. Put some arnica on your face. Make sure you have photos of the injuries pls and text them to me or Rocky so there is a record. Sweetheart I have been where you are and it is excruciatingly painful. But pain is the cornerstone of growth and you have an incredible opportunity right now to change your life. Even if you don't believe it, act as if you deserve more, deserve better, deserve love and care and gentleness. Because you DO. I promise you can be free from this...
20:59	Texts from Amanda de Cadenet to AH: And I don't care how late/ early it is, if anything else happens just call me. Do you feel safe tonight? You are sure all the locks are changed?

The building staff may not be lying. They might just be mistaken.

Again, they got their timings wrong. They all assumed she was wearing little to no makeup, but Amber claims she did use makeup. Plus photographs taken of her injuries cast doubt on the staff seeing no injury.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

The suggestion seems to be that the officers were negligent.

They didn't take notes. Didn't ask for names. Didn't note wine spills or damage. Saw Amber's face "reddening" but dismissed it as flushed from crying. And they couldn't remember how long they dedicated to the call.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

Her photographs did not lack metadata. Pages 83-197 of NGN's closing statement show a full timeline of text messages and photographs, all with metadata.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

She caught him on tape saying "I head-butted you in the fucking forehead". Now you'll say that was an "accident". But there's no evidence to back that up.

It isn't in his WS. He didn't email or text anyone about it. And he didn't say it was an accident on the audio.

A1 @AH1IC · Feb 17, 2021

We don't know how much has been donated so far.

Her lawyer said she hasn't completed the pledge yet because she needed to spend millions on lawsuits. She was dragged into the NGN case in Nov '18, the same time the final payment was made from Depp to Amber.

Final thing on Kate James first, she said this in her 2nd witness statement-

"On June 25, 2020, I received documents pertaining to my involvement"

She read Amber's 5th witness statement. And claims Amber changed the topic of their conversation. That's all.

Let's talk about it then.

First off, Kate took offence to the conversation they had being used in Amber's witness statement. Because Kate claims they talked about X, Amber claims they talked about Y.

Absolutely nothing to do with any alleged abuse.

And all documentation points to him causing the injury to his finger himself.

With Evan Rachel Wood publicly naming Marilyn Manson, here's a thread I did a few months ago with some more grim details of him terrorising her.

Richard @RichardOcelot · Sep 12, 2020
Marilyn Manson did an interview in 2009 with Spin while promoting that godawful The High End of Low album, admitting to just terrorising Evan Rachel Wood and fantasising about bludgeoning her to death. But in 2009 nobody gave a shit cos it was just "Crazy goth man is weeeiird".

toward Wood. He even describes a gruesome pattern of emotional abuse, pointing to Christmas Day in 2008, which he describes as a low point of their relationship: "Every time I called her that day—I called 158 times—I took a razor blade and I cut myself on my face or on my hands." He continued, "I wanted to show her the pain she put me through. It was like, 'I want you to physically see what you've done.'"

I look back and it was a really stupid thing to do. This was intentional, this was a scarification, and this was like a tattoo. I wanted to show her the pain she put me through. It was like, "I want you to physically see what you've done." It sounds made up but it's completely true and I don't give a shit if people believe it or not. I've got the scars to prove it. I didn't want people to ask me every time I did an interview, "Oh, is this record about your relationship with your ex-girlfriend?" But that damage is part of it, and the song "I Want to Kill You Like They Do in The Movies" is about my fantasies. I have fantasies every day about smashing her skull in with a sledgehammer.

But back in 2009 nobody even batted an eyelash at these overt admissions

Merry Christmas.

Once again, I have to correct you.

I had some further information about the circumstances that led to that course. On October 2009 the King County Prosecuting attorney (in Washington state) wrote to Seattle police (who, I assume, had carried out the arrest). The Prosecutor thanked officer for the report but said that no further action would be taken (see 5.1/199/F1212).

Did you read ANY of the documents? He was following her around the cabin.

71. I didn't say anything, as I knew nothing would placate him. I was moving between seats and he was getting up and following me around; it was like a dance. When I moved seats, it provoked him. He started throwing ice cubes at me; throwing all kinds of things at me. When I got up from a chair, I got up slowly and calmly, I did not look away when he spoke. I just wanted to move to a safer seat, away from him, and do so without provoking him.

72. One time when I moved between seats he kicked one of the chairs so it would swivel round and hit me. It was the first time he had made contact with me in front of other people. He was taunting me and demanding I answer a question about how much I like getting off with James Franco on set. It was gross and I didn't answer. I was looking at him and he was teasing and challenging me to answer, saying, "What you liked it?" and when I didn't answer saying, "See, she liked it". I just couldn't believe he would treat me like this in front of other people – and I felt shame because I realised it was only

MR. JUSTICE NICOL: Yes.

MR. WOLANSKI: In fact, the times on that spreadsheet are wrong. There is now no dispute that they are wrong. Schillings accept that.

MR. JUSTICE NICOL: Just a minute. (Pause) I think, when I looked at this briefly, all the times are 0000.

MR. WOLANSKI: That is correct.

MR. JUSTICE NICOL: It does not take a genius to imagine that there is something funny about those times.

MR. WOLANSKI: Yes, that is so. What then happened, as I say, is that nothing happened in relation to the metadata in the case until last Friday. What happened on Friday was that Ms. Heard provided those instructing me with her files of the May 2016 images.

276. Ms Heard says that an incident of violence took place shortly before 17th December 2014. She dates this from a text message which Mr Depp sent her on that date and which said (See file 6/119/047-48),

> 'It's away... I've let it go...Went too far ... We'll tend to do that ... I always regret it when I jump, or worse ... when you jump!!! I don't want to be conditioned to continue that behaviour ... therefore I'll put in heavy work with Shrink [Mr Depp said this should be 'shrink'] I'm sorry for being late ... For your disappointment in me ... For my behaviour. I'm a fucking savage ... Gotta lose that!!' The Devil is all around right...?? I wish I were able to bring just a glimmer of a smile to the pretty face of my most gorgeous of dreams and darkest nightmares ...'

Ms Heard could not recall the incident of violence itself.

277. Mr Depp's text is contrite, but he said that he often described himself in derogatory ways. While earlier in his evidence he had said that a man who hit a woman would be described as a 'savage', I regard the use of the same term in this text as too slender a basis for the inference that he was apologising for hitting Ms Heard. Since Ms Heard was unable to be specific as to the behaviour of Mr Depp which had prompted his apology, I am not persuaded that his apology was not, for instance, caused instead by a particularly heated verbal argument.

278. In conclusion I am not persuaded that Incident 6 constituted a physical assault of Ms Heard by Mr Depp.

Still there. This tweet of hers. It matters because it directly affects her ratio. Just those two "likes" means we have to supply at least two more responses from our side.

Plus with Laura Divenere stating that she felt Waldo pressured her into making a declaration, with statements he pushed for her to include.

What does his mother have to do with that video? It was filmed in Feb 2016 and she died in May 2016.

You did know that, right?

Justice Nicol had issue with seven of Depp's witnesses. Ranging from claims of perjury, vacillation, missing evidence and contradictions.

DEPP'S WITNESSES

(Justice Nicol - Judgement)

"However, while I agree with Mr Sherborne that he may rely on these statements, I have to decide what I make of Ms Divinere's evidence taken as a whole. In my view her vacillation severly undermines the weight which I can give to her evidence."

"On his own account, Mr Murphy was prepared to give false evidence to the Australian court. That is not an encouraging starting point for the submission that his evidence is now to be believed.

but Mr Depp heard her say that; Mr Bett and Mr Depp both agree that he went into PH5, Mr Judge says that Mr Depp did not; Mr Judge does not mention in his declaration that Mr Depp left his phone in PH3, yet this plainly did occur and Mr Drew had to bring it down to Mr Judge and Mr Bett. Had Mr Judge been still alive, he might have been able to address these matters, but I must decide the case on the evidence I have seen and read, not speculate as to what other evidence there might have been."

"Mr McGivern agreed that the account of the incident which he gave in cross-examination differed from the account in his statement. He did not have a satisfactory explanation for the difference. I find the weight I can give to his evidence is consequently reduced"

"I am afraid I did not find Ms James a satisfactory witness. She had been dismissed by Ms Heard in February 2015 and the circumstances of her termination still appeared to be a cause of rancour with Ms James."

"So far as Mr Romero is concerned, his evidence as to dates was plainly unreliable."

"I place no weight on the evidence of Ms Esparza regarding the fake punch. The CCTV to which she referred has never been produced and no explanation has been given for that omission. In any case, in the absence of that evidence, it is impossible to form a view as to what should be made of any incident of that kind."

The LAPD officers spent a grand total of 15 minutes "thoroughly" inspecting the premises and speaking with Amber. They witnessed reddening to her face, but assumed it was due to her crying. They couldn't recall even basic details due to their lack of contemporaneous notes.

LAPD OFFICERS

(Justice Nicol - Judgement)

"It is notable that the officers took no contemporaneous notes." ..."They significantly over-estimated the length of time that they were in the apartments."

which Mr Barruch did see and the photographs of wine stains which were taken just before their arrival."

(Day 4 - Page 651)

Wass: This generic white male, you had a certain amount of interaction with him; do you agree?
Saenz: Correct.
Wass: Did you ever ask his name?
Saenz: No, I did not.

Wass: There was another woman, also, other than Ms. Heard, who was in that complex of penthouse suites, that you interacted with; do you agree?
Saenz: Yes.
Wass: Did you ever ask her name?
Saenz: No.

(Day 4 - Page 661)

Wass: How long do you think you were in that building, Ms. Saenz?
Saenz: I do not recall. I mean, if I had to give a vague guess, I would say 30-60 minutes.
Wass: ... we have CCTV evidence of you and Officer Hadden arriving at 9.04 on the clock of the CCTV in the lift, and leaving at 9.19. -- So, you were there for a considerably shorter time than you recall?
Saenz: Yes.

(Day 4 - Page 656)

Wass: How thorough do you think your examination of her face was?
Saenz: Extremely thorough.
Wass: She clearly had no cuts or serious injuries, but would you agree that bruising can be an injury which takes a little while to come up?
Saenz: In some instances, yes, every individual has diferent (unclear).
Wass: You agree. Did you see the sign of some reddening to her cheek which could have been the genesis of a bruise?
Saenz: What I observed was, like, her face was flushed and red from the crying. I did not at any time during the call (unclear) that she had any bruising on her face, or any injury.
Wass: You saw some reddening to the face, which you attributed to being flushed from crying?

(Day 4 - Page 657)

Wass: All right. You were first asked about this case two months after it happened; yes?
Saenz: Yes, correct.
Wass: Eight weeks, to be absolutely correct. You had no notes of your visit to the Eastern Columbia Building?
Saenz: Correct.

Depp and his security couldn't even get something as simple as "how long were you in the penthouse for?" correct.

PENTHOUSE - TIME

(Day 4 - Page 554)

Wass: You were actually in the flat for the best part of an hour and a half, not 30 minutes.
Depp: No, ma'am, that is not true.

(Day 4 - Page 555)

Wass: You arrived at 7 o'clock and Mr. Murphy's call was at 7.45?
Depp: I do not know what time the call was, but I did not arrive at 7 o'clock.
Wass: You are sure you did not arrive at 7 o'clock, are you?
Depp: I am fairly positive that I was there for a very short period of time.

(Day 8 - Page 1278-9)

Wass: You see, I am going to suggest that you and Mr. Depp and Mr. Judge arrived at around 7 o'clock?
Bett: I would suggest and point out that I believe it was a little bit later than that. It was some time between 7.00 and 7.30p.m.
Wass: And that Mr. Depp and you and Mr. Judge left the lift, or went down in the lift, the elevator, at about 8.30?
Bett: I do not know the times we went into the lift.
Wass: What I am saying is that you arrived an hour and a half before you left?
Bett: We were not there an hour and a half.
Wass: What makes you so sure?
Bett: We were there a short period of time. It could have been between 30 and 40 minutes or 20 and 30 minutes. Again, I did not have a stopwatch going, but I know we were not there an hour and a half.
Wass: Do you think you could be wrong?
Bett: No, I am not wrong.

Audio that Amber managed to secretly record led to Depp making an admission he had never made in court before. He DID headbutt her.

His explanation that it was an accident wasn't reliable because this is the first time he ever mentioned it.

HEADBUTT

(Johnny Depp - Second Witness Statement)
"I was at the penthouse in which I lived with Ms. Heard on 15 December 2015 but I was not violent toward Ms. Heard in any way"

(Day 3 - Page 362)

Wass: When you got to the drawing room on the upper level of PH3, you headbutted Ms. Heard using the top of your head to hit her between the eyes?
Depp: No, ma'am.
Wass: And Ms. Heard fell backwards and her nose started to bleed straightaway.
Depp: No, ma'am.

(Johnny Depp to Amber Heard)
"I head-butted you in the fuckin' forehead. That doesn't break a nose"

(Day 3 - Page 508)

Wass: And you knew that Ms. Heard had made an allegation that on 15th December, amongst other things, you headbutted her?
Depp: She did make the allegation.
Wass: And yet, in your reply, nowhere do you say, "Actually, I did headbutt her, but it was entirely an accident, I was just trying to calm her down", or anything like that?
Depp: I cannot account for what is or is not in the witness statement that was prepared.

Depp: Yes, this is a text that I forgot to hit send on and I am apologising for in any way upsetting him, upsetting Paige, upsetting Amber. No -- one cannot fly with one wing, so in every argument there are two involved. One can escalate the situation or one can de-escalate the situation. And it just depends on the moment, and I, again, I was being as honest with Mr. Heard as I can be. Never do I say "I have punched or hit or smacked or hurled your daughter across the room", or anything of that nature.
Wass: You also never say anywhere, "I did injure her by accident, by headbutting her, I was trying to calm her down".
Depp: No. I did not say that. I, again, the -- no, I did not say that.

Amber was threatening him, despite providing no evidence for that. Completely undermining any evidence he gave in this case as a result.

PERJURY - KEVIN MURPHY

(Justice Nicol - Judgement)
"On his own account, Mr Murphy was prepared to give false evidence to the Australian court. That is not an encouraging starting point for the submission that his evidence is now to be believed."

(Day 3 - Page 362)

Wass: I am suggesting you are lying in that witness statement. Do you agree or disagree?
Murphy: I completely disagree
Wass: Because your evidence on that point is that Ms. Heard wanted you to commit perjury?
Murphy: That is correct.
Wass: Would you commit perjury if somebody asked you?
Murphy: I would not.

(Day 7 - Page 1150)

Wass: Why are you including Mr. Depp in this statement, when it was Amber Heard who was he person who eventually took responsibility for the dogs in Australia; why are you including Mr. Depp unless that was true?
Murphy: Because it is not true.
Wass: Why did you put something untrue in your witness statement?
Murphy: Because that is what I was asked to agree to, and at the threat of losing my job or having trouble with my job.

(Day 7 - Page 1150)

Wass: Your evidence is that you were being asked, not only to commit perjury in a witness statement, but committing perjury or potentially having to commit perjury in a court after having sworn to tell the truth. That is what you are saying Ms. Heard asked you to do.
Murphy: That is correct.
Wass: And it is a really serious thing, is it not, lying on oath?
Murphy: Yes.

Depp could not remember how he lost the tip of his finger when talking to a Consultant. Texts show him explaining he did it to himself.

FINGER INJURY

(Johnny Depp - Second Witness Statement)
"Ms. Heard threw a Vodka bottle at me which cut my finger off when the bottle exploded on the bar on which my hand was resting"

(Day 3 - Page 460) (Johnny Depp text to Dr. Kipper)
"I'm so very sad ... I cut the top of my middle finger off ... What should I do, except of course go to hospital ... I'm so embarrased for jumping into anything with her ..."

"Fucked up my finger pretty nasty. Also can you see if we can a plane for tomorrow, I'm gagging to be back."

"Thank you for everything. I have chopped off my left middle finger as a reminder that I should never cut my finger off again."

(Day 3 - Page 474) (Jerry Judge)
"He basically completely cut the top of his middle finger off on a broken bottle, and we found the piece and we had to put it on ice."

(Day 3 - Page 467) (Email from Consultant to Dr. Kipper)
"Unclear history of traumatic event and no witnesses. Patient under the influence and not coherent nor sure of mechanism."

One of the "cruellest" things Amber ever did was follow the Nurses instructions when helping him detox.

WITHHELD MEDICATION

(Johnny Depp - Second Witness Statement)

"Ms Heard often intervened and withheld medicine from me which caused me substantial issues including spasms and other withdrawal symptoms. This was one of the cruellest things that she has ever done"

(Day 3 - Page 362)

Wass: So when you describe in your witness statement Ms. Heard's conduct on the island as "one of the cruellest things she has ever done", that is not substantiated by any evidence at all, is it?

Depp: Is it substantiated by evidence? I cannot say. I can say that there were incidents where, for example, the time allotted for me to take my medication by the nurse or by Ms. Heard, if it were 4 p.m. on the dot to take those, and it was 3.15, and I began to get the heeby-jeebies, for lack of a better explanation, I have told Ms. Heard that I needed the meds as it was starting to come one, the ---

Wass: The shakes?

Depp: The shakes, the stomach cramps, everything started to come on, and I told her it was time for the meds, I needed the meds, and she looked at the clock and said, "No, 4 o'clock."

Wass: Right, so can I just recap what you are saying. Because Ms. Heard followed the letter of the instructions that she was given to give your medication at four o'clock and did not do what you asked for, to give it at 3.15, you describe that as one of the cruellest things she has ever done; is that right?

Depp: When someone ---

Wass: Is that what you were referring to when you were talking about the cruellest thing she has ever done?

Depp: Yes, that is ---

That substance abuse means he can only remember parts of this flight. Despite claiming otherwise in his Witness Statement and testimony.

MEMORY OF BOSTON-LA FLIGHT

(Johnny Depp - Second Witness Statement)

"I remember the flight from Boston to Los Angeles in detail."

(Day 2 - Page 317)

Wass: The truth of it is, Mr. Depp, that you have no recollection about your monstrous behaviour on that flight?

Depp: No. I have a very good recollection of my behaviour.

(Day 2 - Page 318)

Wass: You may have got very drunk on the plane?

Depp: --- post argument. As I was upset, she was upset. But certainly not enough time to get, as you say, black-out drunk or anything of that nature.

Wass: I have asked you more than once, whether you had part of this flight that you did not remember, and you have repeatedly said you remembered it all clearly.

Depp: Yes.

Wass: Then that changed and you said you remembered that you did hit the bottle at some stage. I mean, you had a blackout, did you not?

Depp: I cannot say that I had a full blackout, because I do have some memories of the flight.

Wass: Some memories?

Depp: Some memories of the flight, yes.

Wass: But parts of that flight are blacked out?

Depp: Apparently. But, yes, apparently that is what I am saying to Mr. Bettany.

(Day 5 - Page 781)

Wass: "He is up, he's much better, clearer. He doesn't remember much, but we took him all through what happened." Did you have to say to Mr. Depp, "Look, you may not remember this, but you did X, Y and Z"?

Deuters: I mean, yes, that suggests, yes, we updated him on the events of the evening, if he wasn't -- yes, if he couldn't remember everything
