I'm not trying to be rude but the court didn't deny anything. They never went to court. She withdrew her request for support herself, not the court. All was negotiated between their lawyers & themselves. I'm looking at the divorce settlement not a magazine article.

Hey @mgmstudios here is a novel thought. How about you release #Minamata and let the people decide if they want to watch it. You have already brought the rights so just release it. You don't speak for the paying public so stop trying to. #JusticeForJohnnyDepp

@mgmstudios I presume you watch the films you purchase. How could anyone who has seen this film think it is about an actor & not about the victims of Minamata? The people deserve their story to be told. It is beholden to you as you purchased the distribution. #ReleaseMinamata

Yes it was Eric George who reviewed the op-ed the ACLU suggested she write. "This new trove of emails finally proves one of the things the ACLU has fought for years to hide: they wrote Amber Heard's false op-ed for her and were co-conspirators with Ms Heard from the start."

> 1. Amber Heard: I spoke up against sexual violence—and faced our culture's wrath. That has to change.

Let's highlight the part where she does say that Depp did not "have a full and fair opportunity to litigate the UK action." Which means, he couldn't present his case in a fair and proper manner. I would call that an unfair trial. twitter.com/glossyinferno/...

This is not a matter of first impression; it is a matter of stare decisis. Based on the abundance of binding case law holding mutuality is still a requirement in Virginia, collateral estoppel is not appropriate here. However, even if an exception to mutuality applied, the Court is not persuaded by Defendant's argument that Plaintiff had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the UK Action. Defendant was not a party in the UK action and was not treated as one. Because she was not a named defendant, she was not subject to the same discovery rules applicable to named parties. In fact, Defendant could not have been a named defendant to the UK litigation because her allegedly defamatory statements were made after the UK action commenced.

A layman's explanation.

If I were talking to elementary school students, I'd probably go with something like this: Actual malice is when someone lies, on purpose, to hurt another person. When famous people sue over lies, they must prove that the defendants fibbed on purpose.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Defendant's Supplemental Plea in Bar is overruled. Regarding Plaintiff's request for sanctions, such request is denied. While Defendant's Supplemental Plea in Bar was misguided and only thinly supported by preexisting law, it is not sanctionable. However, based on this opinion, Paragraph 13 of Defendant's Grounds of Defense is hereby stricken as moot. An Order is attached.

So, Hollywood producers... what to do, what to do as you walk that career tightrope? It's easy: grit your teeth and release the film. The shiny plastic Hollywood bubble you exist in with all those luvvy types and the fresh pressures brought by the irritatingly self-righteous woke generation don't matter a damn five miles in any direction.

It's the average Joe and Jane Blow who'll go see Depp in pretty much anything. And if some people want to take a stand and think Depp is now 'evil'? They can choose not to go see his new movie.

In regards to the civil suit Giuffre vs Prince Andrew the same standard will apply as did for Depp vs NGN. I bet you no one will have any problems understanding the difference in this case.

The key issue here is that the standard of proof required for a civil claim is not as high as the requirement of proof "beyond reasonable doubt" that would guarantee a criminal conviction.

The court didn't & couldn't rule he was an abuser. It was a civil libel case. He ruled The Sun could use the term wife beater because in his opinion (based on Heard's words alone & hearsay testimony) her evidence was substantially true (51%). 2% diff doesn't make him an abuser.

There's no guilty verdict in this trial. That's really not hard to understand. Until he is criminally charged with DV, with an actual trial for an abuse charge, no one should be calling him an abuser. It's unfortunate that he has to use a civil court to clear his name.

★★★★ 4.00 · Rating details · 1 rating · 1 review

John James tells his autobiographical account of his experience inside his abusive relationship and the aftermath of that, including his battle with PTSD and depression, medication and therapy and his rebirth as a new man. It is sometimes beautiful, sometimes sad, sometimes brutal but always honest. It is the story of the hidden side of abuse, that of a male victim. This book says, no more silence, it's time to speak out. (less)

Willem Dafoe is also circling a role in the film.

The fact that this is the most unresearched drug while we know that humans have receptors specifically for CBD and that it is known to help many medical issues, is crazy. With proper research we could find that this plant was supposed to be our miracle drug from the get go!

The cannabis plant has two primary cannabinoids, THC and CBD (or cannabidiol). These substances are becoming more and more well known, but what surprises many people is that humans have receptors in our bodies and brains that are specifically receptive to cannabinoids. These are called CB receptors (cannabinoid receptors).

I discovered why Cristina Andreu Cuevas is blocking people, why she spoke out, she is part of Times Up & MeToo; it looks like she is a misandrist/4th-wave feminist. She's the president of CIMA. This is just a tactic to ruin him ahead of VA imo b/c of Ms. Heard's LIES.

> -In 2018 CIMA joined various international initiatives such as #Time's Up, a movement against sexual harassment founded on January 1, 2018 by Hollywood celebrities in response to the Weinstein effect and the feminist movement #MeToo, which call for a film sector where equality is guaranteed by right. What made this union possible?
> -Well, it made it possible for all women to unite. For example, we belong to the UN; that is, we are coming together and having regular meetings on some topics. Because Time's Up was born in the United States, the problems are different. I think it all started with the #MeToo, which was the trigger, especially because of the sexual abuse. But we haven't detected that much in Spain. What we have is an abuse of power by men over women.

Vintage or classic cars are exempt from the seatbelt law since they weren't required before 1964. Then most only had lap belts.

> California Seat Belt Law Exceptions
> There is one exception to the rule that doesn't require vintage vehicles to have seat belts. While CVC 27315 exempts adults from having to wear seat belts in vintage cars and trucks, it does not exempt children from wearing them. The law dictates that a child younger than six years old or one that weighs less than 60 pounds must be secure in a booster or child safety seat in a vintage or classic vehicle.

You're crossing a line here. No one knows why Heard lost her license for 4 years when she was a minor. The docs are court sealed. She did say a good friend of hers died when she was a teenager but she's never said she killed her. Let's not spread unproven information.

By the time Amber sent that email to iO at 9 pm the anonymous call had already been made before Johnny got into the elevator. They had to stage the damage & take pics to extend their hoax because the cops were supposed to get Johnny. I believe that was the original plan.

Yes they were. When you look at the court docs, there's a log of all the calls, texts, emails & all the communication & descriptions from the police. It took over 2 hours for LAPD/NYPD to record the exchanges in their system. The call coming from NY really messed that up.

Only a criminal court can convict for domestic abuse. Even the judge said it wasn't his job to convict. A civil libel case only needs 51% to be deemed substantially true. He would be in jail if he was convicted yet he's winning awards!

Sorry but that's not the context of what was said. She wasn't talking that she could expect him to hit her next. She said she thought he would next tell the public she used to be a stripper.

> AH: Your people put this out. Why, why, why, why did your security go on the record and lie? Why, that's a proactive measure. Why did your divorce attorney get to file for divorce period? At all? Second, why did she have to go and leak to TMZ? Why if you wanted it private, is TMZ being fed information literally by Laura Wasser and Marty Singer every step of the way? My, my my my arrest records. Who put that in the media? The rumors that I was a stripper? Or, of course I can expect that. I've known every step of the way, every single step of the way everything you give 'em.
> JD: I give 'em? I give 'em? That's it. I give 'em? I'll see you in court. No. I'll fking see you in court. I will fking see you in court. I never fking said that. I never told anyone that. You fking trusted me with that and I never fking told anyone that. And you know what, Amber?

It isn't really about stupid people. It's the journalists who can't be bothered to get the facts straight and prefer to use misleading headlines for clicks. Many people don't bother to read or research so the false headlines stick.

It's common practice with large settlements & it was agreed to in the settlement - a signed, binding document. Heard/ACLU said she HAD donated. That's the difference. She didn't say she wanted to pay over time until she got called out in the UK trial.

Heard's first film was SideFX (another sex-pot, drugged out role) was filmed starting Oct 2003. This is the film she provided false ID for. She was 17 & the film is rated R. It is a terrible, gory less than B movie.

The evidence Ms. Heard provided allegedly shows that Mr. Depp committed several acts of property damage, including defacing a painting (Incident 2), destructing a bathroom light fixture (Incident 3), writing graffiti with blood and painting on walls and mirrors (Incident 8), and writing a message to Ms. Heard with a marker on a kitchen countertop (Incident 13). In 1994, Mr. Depp was charged with felony mischief when he caused significant damage to a hotel room. One video recorded by Ms. Heard shows Mr. Depp in a rage slamming cabinets in their kitchen. The video shows Mr. Depp destroying property, but he is not physically violent against Ms. Heard at any moment nor does she show any indication of being afraid of him.

In sum, Mr. Depp has a history of destroying property but not of being violent against persons.

Serious physical violence

Besides the alleged violent incidents reported by Ms. Heard, there is no indication that Mr. Depp has ever committed acts of serious physical violence against other intimate partners or other persons.

Interactions with their abuser, it is frequent that victims beg, show fear, and promise to behave the way the abuser wants them to (Rakovec-Felser, 2014). This was not, however, Ms. Heard's behavior. On the contrary, Ms. Heard displayed many of the characteristics usually found on IPV perpetrators (e.g., Goetz et al., 2006; Lehmann et al., 2012; Murphy & Hoover, 1999; Rodríguez-Carballeira et al., 2014; Ward & Muldoon, 2007), and none associated with being a victim – she identified behaviors of Mr. Depp that she disliked, blamed Mr. Depp for the negative course of their relationship, blamed Mr. Depp for the violence she perpetrated, portrayed herself as the victim, patronized Mr. Depp, demanded that Mr. Depp behave the way she wanted, blackmailed/threatened Mr. Depp, used manipulative strategies, demeaned Mr. Depp, implied that something was wrong with him, minimized the violence she perpetrated, and verbally attacked Mr. Depp. Detailed examples of these abusive behavioral strategies, taken verbatim from Ms. Heard, are provided in Online Source 4.

In this trial, the defendant had to prove that the allegations of abuse occurred (i.e., application of the UK Defamation Act 2013 s.2). In other words, the defendant had to prove that Mr. Depp beat Ms. Heard, causing her to suffer significant injury and leading to her fearing for her life. Being a libel case, the balance of probability applies (i.e., the court is called to determine whether the occurrence of the event was more likely than not), and therefore, the standard of evidence is lower than in a criminal case.

Some studies have found that it is women who primarily use or threaten to use false accusations of violence as a way of dominating male partners (Henning et al., 2006; Hines et al., 2007) or with the specific purpose of getting them arrested (Cooke, 2009; Douglas et al., 2012).

Corroboration by credible others

Among the 30 witnesses who supported either Ms. Heard's or Mr. Depp's statements, I considered friends, close acquaintances, current employees, and those with a contractual relationship with them non-credible because of their affective personal relation or possible financial conflict of interest in the case. This excluded all eight witnesses from Ms. Heard's side and seven out of 22 from Mr. Depp's side. From the 15 testimonies considered credible, two, Mr. Depp's ex-partners, were considered only for the analysis of Factor 5, specifically to characterize his history of abusive behavior. No credible witnesses corroborated Ms. Heard's account of events.

The evidence Ms. Heard provided allegedly shows that Mr. Depp committed several acts of property damage, including defacing a painting (Incident 2), destructing a bathroom light fixture (Incident 3), writing graffiti with blood and painting on walls and mirrors (Incident 8), and writing a message to Ms. Heard with a marker on a kitchen countertop (Incident 13). In 1994, Mr. Depp was charged with felony mischief when he caused significant damage to a hotel room. One video recorded by Ms. Heard shows Mr. Depp in a rage slamming cabinets in their kitchen. The video shows Mr. Depp destroying property, but he is not physically violent against Ms. Heard at any moment nor does she show any indication of being afraid of him.

In sum, Mr. Depp has a history of destroying property but not of being violent against persons.

Serious physical violence

Besides the alleged violent incidents reported by Ms. Heard, there is no indication that Mr. Depp has ever committed acts of serious physical violence against other intimate partners or other persons.

The civil case found The Sun didn't defame Depp by calling him a wifebeater based on lies the judge found were 51% substantially true. Different than being found guilty of DV beyond a reasonable doubt by 100% of a jury in a criminal case. The only way to be found guilty of DV.

And he never claimed he was a victim because they both agreed to an NDA so they could move on. SHE agreed to their mutual statement re the divorce. SHE chose to write the op-ed (well ACLU asked her to) & lie to the world. Now ACLU has to prove she donated the money.

She had to sit for a deposition in regards to the TRO. Again, TEMPORARY restraining order, was extended to the court date booked to discuss a permanent RO. Normal procedure. They never went to court & reached a settlement. The judge had nothing to rule on. Only had to sign off.

hitting her? When do you hear her ask him to stop hitting her in any of the audio? Funny, Depp is the one always asking her to stop hitting him.

She never got her day in court. That will happen in VA. She was just a witness in the UK. Exactly, she could have sent him to jail in 2016 if she had evidence then, she didn't and even evaded her deposition 3 times, why? I've read all the documents so far. I'm on team Depp.

She dismissed the requesting for a permanent restraining order and the judge ruled it was with prejudice, meaning she could never file for a DV restraining order again. She did not have enough evidence and evaded her deposition 3 times. Why?

6. How does a person get a restraining order?

A person can go to the California courts (usually Superior Court) and completing the necessary forms. Alternatively, the person's family law or other attorney can complete the forms. It is deemed a type of self-help.

In the forms, the party seeking protection must describe why he/she is requesting protection from another party. Once complete, the party files the forms with the court clerk and is obligated to pay a filing fee (unless a fee waiver applies).

A judge then reviews the forms and decides whether or not to issue a TRO. If issued, the order will usually last for 21 days.[10]

Following the issuance of the TRO, the court will determine whether or not to make it permanent restraining order after hearing evidence on the matter. Prior to this hearing, notice of it must be given to the restrained party via a process server, and proof of service

You can blah blah blah all you want. He's never been criminally charged with DV. A libel case where a 51% substantially true ruling is all that is needed to allow a newspaper to use the term "wife beater" does not make him one. More evidence against her is coming in VA.

If Amber had so much evidence she could have easily gone after him for DV during the divorce. She didn't even state DV as the reason for divorce. She couldn't because she was lying. She never says he has to stop hitting her in any of the audios but he says that to her many times

Let's get real here. The judge found no such thing. This was a civil libel suit not a criminal DV suit which is the ONLY way someone can be found guilty of abuse. All the judge could do do was find whether these allegations were 51% substantially true in order for NGN to win.

It's one thing stating opinions regardless of what they may be but the personal attacks & ganging up is malicious. No different than what turdy & cohorts do.

He doesn't owe anyone an explanation nor give receipts. Not anything illegal. If you don't like his way of doing things, move along. No one owns #J4JD. He's not misusing it in any way. If he wants to crowdfund his trip to VA & people are willing to donate, good on him & them.

So many people in the Johnny Depp community should be ashamed of themselves.

Agree! A lot of hateful people in the JD community. Most who behave this way do nothing to help the cause and just sit on their butts complaining about others who do something.

Nope, nothing suspect about my profile at all. Been here for over a decade on multiple accounts. This is a new one - so what? It's Twitter. I comment where I want, when I want. You have your beliefs in this case and I have mine.

No she didn't say that at all. If you don't know the background, you should sustain from making false comments. Also, JD is NOT homophobic in the least. Didn't you know that all his characters are gay?

Or a woman or man hiding from an abusive ex who has been threatened several times. Sure, let's put their names on their profiles so they can get abused some more.

I have more than one account here. One has my real name but I am very careful what I post about. I follow several court cases so I want to remain anonymous. Many people in my group have been doxed & have been attacked at home. Or employers contacted. Crazy shit.

So easy for people to be selfish and only think of "their" circumstances and assume that all people who chose to remain anonymous are trolls. Shows how out-of-touch with real life they are.

No one forces anyone from these accounts to be verified. It's a choice. As public figures, they are already in the public eye and they want the "verified" status. Many abuse survivors, LGBTQ+, etc. do not want to be identified.

Because Depp's lawyers at the time of the divorce also worked for Elon (JD had no idea). They withheld a lot of evidence from JD including these videos. So Elon was certain they would never come out. JD's new lawyers finally got this evidence years after the divorce.
